Curious Hiram Johnson Wound in Threadneedle What Is Courage—Again Wanted—A Brake and Oil
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

Editors will read Senator Hiram Johnson's speech on "Curiosity," as published in the Congressional Record for August 10. Hiram Johnson is curious about several things. The people are as curious as he.

He wonders why the country paid 100 million dollars to England for carrying our soldiers to help England, and six million dollars interest on the amount, when England owed us thousands of millions of borrowed money and hundreds of millions in interest.

Hiram Johnson had been told that when we owe England, that is a debt of honor and must be paid at once. But when England owes us, that is different. It can wait. He is curious about that. So are you.

Senator Johnson wants to know why we spend a million dollars a month keeping American soldiers in Germany. He wants to know whether the disarmament conference will discuss things publicly, or decide that the people are too ignorant to discuss their own business.

And Hiram Johnson would like to know what sort of peace is being framed with Germany, and why the people—since it is their peace.—cannot be told about it.

What Johnson wants to know, YOU want to know. You would know, if there were more Senators like Johnson.

Here's a wound the British lion feels keenly, in Threadneedle street, Italy discards the pound sterling as a basis for her gold money and uses our dollar in place, saying "The dollar is real money." It is, indeed, with thousands in gold behind it. But Mr. Bryan will remind you that the piles of gold do not help six million Americans out of work.

What is a courageous deed? It depends on why you do it. A Nihilist in a Russian prison feared he would betray his comrades under torture and decided to die. He climbed up by the bars of his cell window and held his body against a small oil lamp until fatally burned. That was courage.

Sylvester Crockett, giant negro from Florida, was condemned to five years in prison for attacking a policeman. He said it was unjust, poured kerosene over his clothing, took a lighted match from a fellow convict, set fire to himself in several places, is in the hospital and will die.

Would you call that courage? Hardly, because there was no admirable motive back of it. Courage is difficult to define.

Opportunity for inventors. Devise an extra brake to be used on motors, light motors especially, in mountainous countries. Owners of cars, constantly deseending long hills, spend their lives renewing brake bands. An emergency brake, like the old-fashioned foot brake on a buckboard, would answer. There might be an attachment outside the hub of the wheel with a powerful brake iron against iron.

If you invent the brake, or have it already made, send word.

There must be oil underground in Australia, where rank vegetation has grown for millions of years. But it has not been discovered in paying quantities. If you can go there, find it, government will pay you $175,000 reward—and you can have the oil. That will interest American prospectors.

Judge James E. Boyd of the United States Court, in North Carolina, decides that the Federal law, protecting children from exploitation of child labor, is unconstitutional. The nation tried once before, to frame a law for the children, and the same judge decided that it would not do. The Supreme Court upheld his decision.

It seems hard to protect children, or women, or to tax wealth, in a way to suit the constitution.

Luckily that constitution can be changed.

Eventually, law WILL protect children from exploitation that destroys them. The learned, conscientious judge says that regulation of labor is a power reserved by individual States, and the nation must not interfere. It has interfered—in 1861, for instance, on which occasion the nation regulated labor, and the people of the country now, are at least as much opposed to white child slavery as they were in 1861 to black adult slavery.

Once more they will find a way to control labor within the State, and in a peaceful way, this time.

FRAUD IS CHARGED TO TRUST

Wakefield Man and Daughter File Action Against Directors and Lumber Firm

Another development in the alleged United States Housing Trust swindle, evidence of which will be presented to a grand jury, occurred today when a bill in equity was brought in Superior Court by James H. Hillgrove of Wakefield and his daughter Ruth E.

The bill, directed against the trust and the Curtis and Pope Lumber Co., declared that all the transactions and affairs of the Housing Trust and Grant G. Oakman and Fred W. Knight, the original trustees, were fraudulent.

It further charged that they were part of a scheme to obtain money from the public with no intention to perform honestly and properly agreements entered into.

Assistant District Attorney William S. Kinney of Suffolk County said that evidence of fraud on the part of the Trust, which has offices at No. 150 Devonshire street, will be presented to the September Grand Jury.

An investigation by Police Inspectors Tonkin and Donovan shows, according to officials, that only two houses were partly completed and six others started before the work was suspended for alleged lack of funds.

Kinney declared that scores of people had purchased bonds of the company on supposed agreements that houses would be constructed for them, believing they were dealing with the United States Housing Corporation.

Hillgrove says that Oakman and Knight entered into an agreement to build a house for him and that he was to give a mortgage for $6,375.

Since the mortgage was delivered on July 2, 1921, Hillgrove says that Oakman and Knight have resigned as

POLITICAL STABILITY FIRST, URGES DAVIS

Williamstown, Aug. 24.—"It is idle to talk of the economic rehabilitation of Europe until political stability has been achieved," Norman H. Uncertainty about reparations continues, he said, at the head of the world's present difficulties.

Courier of South Parliament Starts Tomorrow to Meet Premier

London, Aug. 24—(By the Associated Press)—A Sinn Fein courier will be sent from Dublin tomorrow night with the reply of the Dail Eireann to the British government's peace proposals, says a Central News dispatch from Dublin. The reply, it adds, is to be delivered to Premier Lloyd George in London Friday morning.

By International News Service.

Dublin, Aug. 24.—Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein Parliament) will reject the English proposals and will not make a counter offer, it was learned today from a prominent Republican leader.

The reason for this proposed action is that the Sinn Fein leaders are convinced that the English offer was not the last word of Premier Lloyd George and that further concessions may be expected.

(Note—Both Premier Lloyd George and Marquis Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, announced in the British Parliament last Friday that the English peace offer was the government's "final word" and that no further concessions would be made in the way of principle, although there might be a rearrangement of some of the details.

WOULD LESSEN OFFER

Dail Eireann was not in session today, but the members held informal discussions among themselves.

It is understood that Eamon De Valera's reply to the English peace offer is now in the hands of the Sinn Fein parliamentarians, but that it will not be forwarded to London until the end of the week.

Dail Eireann is scheduled to meet in secret session again tomorrow. According to the informant, the members of Dail Eireann believe that if they surrender to Lloyd George the Premier would lessen the English offer in his next communication to the Sinn Fein.

REFUSE TO BEG.

"We will not beg anything," said the Sinn Fein spokesman. "We will not ask for anything, but we will stand firm. If we jumped into making an offer now it would spell the ruin of all our freedom aspirations. We know that we are dealing with an astute man in Lloyd George.

"We feel certain he is prepared to go further. Lloyd George never says the final word the first time."

Questioned as to whether he believed fighting would be renewed if the British government were formally informed that the Sinn Fein had rejected the peace offer, the Sinn Fein informant replied:

"I do not think hostilities will be

Suit by Wife of Wealthy Syracuse Man Heard in Court Here

Testimony involving an alleged Eve affair between Miss Minnie Leach, a Boston cabaret singer, and Samuel Elman, Syracuse millionaire trousers manufacturer, was heard today in the office of Attorney Elisha Greenhood in the Pemberton Building.

The testimony was given before Referee Frank B. Hodges of Syracuse, designated by Supreme Court Justice Cheney of Syracuse to hear witnesses in support of the allegation of Mrs. Bessie Schmitt Elman.

Elman brought suit against his wife, naming a well known Syracuse optometrist, who was later dropped from the case, together with a suit for alienation of affections instituted against him. Mrs. Elman retaliated with counter-charges of infidelity, and the present hearing is the result.

The wealthy Syracusan is alleged to have trodden the well-known primrose path in Boston with Miss Leach in the Spring of 1915.

SENATORS APPROVE PACT

Republican Members of Foreign Relations Committee Confer With Harding

Washington, Aug. 24.—The signing of a treaty of peace between the United States and Germany may be expected within a short time, it was announced officially at the White House today.

The President today submitted the treaty to the Republican members of the senate foreign relations committee and it received their unanimous approval, the White House stated.

The President and Secretary of State Hughes thought it advisable to submit the treaty to the foreign relations committee prior to its signature, it was stated. Having secured the unanimous approval of the treaty, by these senators, it is understood that the State Department will immediately dispatch orders to Ethelbert Loring Kreset, American commissioner at Berlin, to proceed to affix his signature to the pact.

Immediately upon signature of the treaty, by Dresel and Baron Rosen, representing Germany, diplomatic relations between the two countries will be resumed, it was officially announced. Resumption of diplomatic relations will not await ratification by the Senate.

The President will not hold the Senate in session to consider the treaty, it was stated. The German Reichstag will not convene until September 28 and the present recess will end at that time and it is hoped that the two bodies may consider the treaty at the same time.

The treaty, it was learned, recognizes all the rights established for the United States under the Versailles treaty, even though this nation has not ratified the pact.

All property and other rights which the United States was to assume under the Versailles treaty are protected in the treaty now about to be signed, although there is express provision that the United States assumes none of the responsibilities of the Versailles treaty.

The treaty is complete and there will be no preliminary treaty or protocol, as has been suggested. It is President informed the Senators. No suggestion is made in the treaty that

REPUBLICAN SENATORS APPROVE TEXT OF TREATY WITH GERMANY

READY FOR SIGNING OF TREATY

Germany should assume responsibility for the war, it was learned.

The treaty, it is understood, is not more than 2,000 words in length.

The treaty incorporates most of the important parts of the Knox peace resolution, particularly those parts which referred to the protection of American property rights and the rights in seized alien property. The treaty was negotiated on the basis of peace having been already established by the passage of the Knox resolution, thus upsetting contentions of many members of Congress that peace cannot be established by Congressional resolution.

The text of the treaty will be made public simultaneously in Berlin and the United States. It is understood, however, that as a matter of courtesy to the German authorities, there may be a slight lead in the publication of the pact in Berlin.

Treaty to Be Signed In Berlin Today

Berlin, Aug. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Friendly relations between the governments of Germany and the United States, which were interrupted on February 8, 1917, were to be restored by the signature of the treaty of peace between the two nations here today.

Arrangements for the event were completed yesterday and it was decided that the chief figures in today's ceremony would be Ellis Loring Dresel, United States commissioner here, and Dr. Friedrich Rosen, German Foreign Minister, who would affix their signatures to the convention.

Officials engaged in framing the treaty said those who had been taken into their confidence were reticent as to the details of the document.

Immediate resumption of diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States was to be provided for.

It was understood that matters pertaining to commercial, economic and financial affairs were to be settled in supplementary agreements.

The arresting officer said Swanson was sober, although the landlord declared he was drunk. The landlord appealed the fine.

Providence Police Forward Descriptions of Men Held in Water Sale

Providence, Aug. 24.—Crime crushed to earth is apt to rise again, the local police admitted today, in expressing a belief that the three whiskey fakers who sold barrelled water in Portland, Me., were the same men who were arrested with similar intentions in this city.

In the attempt here the minions of the law descended upon the "bootleggers" before they were able to make any sales, but in Portland they obtained $2,200 for seven kegs of water.

Six weeks ago Philip Cenier, thirty-three years old, of Bridgeport, Ct., Ralph Beall, twenty-one years old, of Los Angeles, and John H. Stanford, thirty years old, of New York, arrived in this city with thirteen empty whiskey barrels, said to have been secured in Boston.

The barrels were installed in a garage and filled with water, but at this point the police made an appearance, and the three men, who admitted they intended to sell the barrelled water for whiskey, were arrested.

They were arraigned in court on a charge of being common cheats, sentenced to six months each in the House of Correction, appealed and were held in $5,000 bonds.

Chief Inspector John T. Maguire said today he believes the three men, on being released under bonds, hurried to Portland, where they carried through a transaction without police interference.

He has forwarded pictures and descriptions of the men to the Portland police.

He was found guilty and sentenced to six months in jail, but the sentence was suspended.

HARDING'S RAIL POLICY WRONG, SAYS McADOO

U. S. Not "Morally and Legally Bound" to Fund $763,000,000 Debt, He Declares

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 24.—President Harding was "clearly mistaken" in telling Congress that the government was "morally and legally bound" to fund the $763,000,000 debt which the railroads owe the United States for additions and betterments, according to the expressed opinion of William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and director of the Railroad Administration.

Stripped of confusing non-essentials," Mr. McAdoo declared in a letter to Senator Stanley of Kentucky, a member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, "what is proposed is that the government shall wait ten years for $763,000,000 the railroads owe it for betterments and improvements and pay immediately $500,000,000 to the railroads on account of claims for alleged under-maintenance taking securities which in many instances may not be adequate to protect the government against loss.

"It is not a question of 'legal or moral obligation,' but a question of policy."

McAdoo's criticism of the Harding scheme to help the railroads over the rocks was placed in the Senate record by Senator Stanley after the former head of the Railroad Administration had been refused a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Committee previous to the reporting of the administration enabling bill to the Senate.

McAdoo suggested that settlements with the railroads be effected by funding for ten years the difference between the amount which the railroads owe the government and which the government owes the railroads. The difference is estimated at $263,000,000.

PAID $900 IN CASH.

To avoid personal liability on a note, Hillgrove says that he conveyed two lots of land owned by him to his daughter, Ruth E. Hillgrove, who executed a mortgage and note for $6,575 to Oakman and Knight, dated June 21, 1921.

At about the same time Hillgrove said he paid Oakman and Knight $600 in cash as his part of the agreement.

Hillgrove charges that Oakman and Knight fraudulently, dishonestly and in violation of the terms of the agreement, assigned the note and mortgage to the Curtis & Pope Lumber Co. which claims to hold them as security for lumber furnished to the United States Housing Trust to the amount of $1,200.

At meetings held on August 12 and 21, parties who had executed agreements and other creditors of the trust were told by Oakman and Knight and Rea, according to Hillgrove, that they were unable to perform their agreements, and that there was but $8 cents in the treasury.

Hillgrove asked the court to declare his agreement null and void, and that the Curtis & Pope Lumber Company be ordered to cancel on the record the assignment of the mortgage.

"MINERS' ARMY" NOW NUMBERS 2,500 MEN

"Mother" Jones reached the camp Tuesday night and is said to be taking an active hand in the plans of the miners' "army." Federal troops are ready at Camps Taylor and Sherman to move into West Virginia immediately if occasion require.

Cuneo who was killed in the performance of his duty while trying to disarm a crazed man in Hanover street.

The Boston American Cuneo Fund totaled $10,709.60 today. The passing of the $10,000 mark in one week established a local fund record. Donations are beginning to lag despite the fact that the goal has only been half attained. Bear in mind that the plan is to buy the Cuneo home and pay all bills and establish a trust fund to insure Mrs. Cuneo and her children against want until the last of them is self-supporting. To this end a fund of from $20,000 to $25,000 will be required.

Four $100 donations were received Tuesday. They were given by Miss Vivienne Segal, leading lady of "A Wise Child," at the Colonial Theatre; the Jordan Marsh Company, H. P. Hood Sons, Inc., and by Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Lieutenant-Governor Fuller sent his congratulations to the Boston American, with his check for $100. His letter read:

"Aug. 22, 1921.

"Boston American Cuneo Fund.

"Gentlemen:

"Enclosed is my contribution of $100 to the Cuneo Fund. Patrolman Cuneo gave his life in the performance of his duty. It is incumbent upon the citizens to give what they can to the end that the blow to the wife and children shall be lightened as much as possible.

"It is unfortunate that the wife and children of heroes like Cuneo should be dependent upon contributions. It is my humble opinion that the salary of a patrolman or a fireman who dies at his post of duty should continue on for the benefit of the widow and fatherless.

"I congratulate the Boston American in providing an opportunity for the public to give to this very worthy purpose. You have my best wishes.

"Very sincerely yours,

"ALVAN T. FULLER."

Contributions to the Boston American's Cuneo Fund reached a total of $10,709.60 today. The list of new donations follows:

3 BIG WHISKEY RINGS IN NEW YORK

Investigators Trail 130 Bootleggers; Business Men Involved

By Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 24.—A special anti-bootlegging force sent to New York by the Department of Internal Revenue has found evidences of three big separate whiskey rings, "operating in the belief that they are grandly immune to the law," said a statement made public today by Howard R. Kiroack, head of the force.

So far, Mr. Kiroack said, the investigators have uncovered evidence which will be made sufficient to cause indictment of about 130 alleged bootleggers. A check of liquor permits now in order indicates that many more dealers in liquor will fall into the net, he declared.

The investigators have examined about half of the 2,500 books of Class B permits issued to wholesalers here, he said, and have found indications of fraud in 40 per cent. of them.

Mr. Kiroack declared he expected to see "persons high in the business and social life of New York and high and low officials past and present" implicated before the liquor frauds before the investigation was completed.

The boat was not expected here much before late Thursday or early Friday, according to the officials. She is bringing 700 passengers, most of whom are Italian and Portuguese immigrants, and mail for the United States.

renewed. I believe the truce will remain in effect. The Sinn Fein leaders believe that under the circumstances another set of proposals would come from London.

Dail Eireann United On Peace Question

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 24.—Dail Eireann, which has been sitting at Dublin, is united on the Irish peace question and there is little likelihood of a split, said a dispatch from Dublin today.

The London morning papers, which are supporting the Irish policy of the British Cabinet, again expressed optimism today and urged the public to be patient in view of the prolonged disagreement.

The Dublin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that, while a strong faction of Dail Eireann clings to the idea of a republic, there is another important body that is willing to see how far the dominion status of Ireland will carry.

The correspondent warned the public that the Republican Parliament will not split and that whatever answer is made to Premier Lloyd George will give the united opinion of the Parliament.

"Dail Eireann, in its reply to the English offer, may ask if Premier Lloyd George meant the dominion guarantee in the letter of General Smuts, Premier of South Africa, to Eamon de Valera," said a Dublin dispatch to the Daily Telegraph.

"Dail Eireann may demand, in view of the ultimate united aims of Ireland, that certain powers, particularly those of tax gathering, be conceded to the South of Ireland, and denied to Ulster."

The Daily Express, in a sensational article today, declared that "the power behind De Valera" is Erskine Childers, the "younger son" of the old and prominent English family.

Childers espoused the Sinn Fein cause after his honorable discharge from the British air forces, where he served during the war as a lieutenant commander.

He is married to a woman from Boston and has written considerably on historical subjects. Two of his books are "The Riddle of the Sands" and "The Framework of Home Rule."

The Daily Express said that Mr. Childers is also a "dominating force in Sinn Fein councils and assists her husband in controlling the Irish Bulletin, the official organ of the Sinn Feiners and the Republican government at Dublin.

CLOSE TO DE VALERA.

Childers is said to have a strong following in Dail Eireann. According to the Daily Telegraph, he is leader of 50 of the bravest men in the Sinn Fein Parliament. De Valera has great faith in Childers' political judgment and continuously consults him.

The Daily Express adds that another Englishman high in the council's of the Sinn Fein is Charles Burgess.

The Daily Chronicle forecast that the Sinn Fein reply will reaffirm adherence to republican principles, but will not insist upon a republic in view of the enormous cost in lives and money it would require to conduct a war for that forbidden form of government.

OBENCHAIN IS REAL HERO IN SORDID TRAGEDY, PARSON DECLARES

MINISTER PRAISES STAND

Los Angeles, Aug. 24.—With clergymen directing attention to the great love of Ralph Obenchain for his erring wife, or former wife, Los Angeles got a new thrill. The thrill came from the attitude of the Rev. Gustav A. Briegleb, pastor of the West Lake Presbyterian Church and head of the Los Angeles Ministerial Union.

Rev. Briegleb analyzed the part that the aggrieved husband is playing in the murder drama case in which the wife of Obenchain and another man have been indicted for the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy.

"Is any man justified in going to such lengths?" demanded Dr. Briegleb.

"Is any man justified in trying thus to preserve a love which has been ruthlessly trodden underfoot? If all men took such an attitude would society be safe?

WORTHY OF ADMIRATION.

"In all the terrible drama, perhaps the character of this man stands forth as worthy of the greatest admiration. For the sake of the sinning wife he was willing to bear the misunderstanding of his friends and the judgment of the courts of men when he was adjudged guilty on grounds sufficient to grant her a divorce.

"He is truly the hero of the sordid tragedy, the perfect embodiment of that love 'which passes all understanding, which suffereth long and is kind, seeking not its own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil, beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.'

"Men have doubted the possibility of such love. John Ruskin gave his wife a divorce when he found she no longer loved him, but Obenchain not only did not so much, but rushed to the woman's side in her hour of tribulation and trial.

ANSWER IN DOUBLE STANDARD.

"In all the discussion it has been assumed Ralph Obenchain's attitude is an unusual one. Perhaps it is, for a man. Yet all over this broad land of ours there are women by the scores whose loyalty to erring husbands is beyond human comprehension. Why should Obenchain's attitude appear unusual? The answer is simple. It lies in our double standard.

"Women seem to be expected to be loyal, but we question the propriety of such a thing in a man under these circumstances. There is little danger of society's going on the rocks because of a wholesale movement on the part of loving husbands to take back erring wives.

"The male of the species is more deadly than the female when it comes to the question of forgiveness for moral turpitude.

"The vital point in the entire discussion lies in the question has Madalynne really repented of her past life?

"So far in her statements there has appeared not a single word of repentance or sorrow. Perhaps she has felt sorrowful, and in the privacy of her talks with Ralph has manifested it, but so far as the public is concerned she is still the same Madalynne, with a face of unusual beauty and a heart that is as fickle as it is shallow.

SPIRIT UNCHANGED.

"Her public statements up to the time her husband came upon the scene all indicated her spirit had undergone little change from the day when, as a bride going to the altar, she allowed herself to receive from a former suitor a message setting forth his protestations of love.

"Forgiveness is always conditioned upon heart repentance. If she merely clings to her husband because she feels the need of someone to stand by in this hour of her trouble, then society is in danger, and she should be prevented from ruining any more lives.

"It is a pity that Obenchain did not feel the necessity of laying a heavy hand upon the despoiler of his home.

"The only way to deal with overtrain is to condemn it, making it harder to do wrong and easier to do right. He should have refused to divorce her. He should have insisted she fulfill her wifely duties and instincts.

Ex-Gov. Osborne Fights a Bear

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 24.—Former Governor Chase E. Osborne of Michigan engaged in a desperate battle in St. Mary's River with a black bear and emerged victorious only after stunning the animal with blows from a paddle and axe, then choking it to death with his hands.

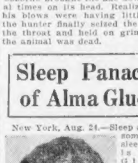
GOVERNOR C. J. OSBORN

Mr. Osborne, who is 61 years old and said to be an experienced bear hunter, was alone in a small boat when the bear appeared, swimming toward him.

Witnesses on shore saw the animal nearly capsize the boat as it attempted to climb aboard, while Mr. Osborne brought the axe down several times on its head. Realizing that his blows were having little effect, the hunter finally seized the bear by the throat and held on grimly until the animal was dead.

Sleep Panacea of Alma Gluck

New York, Aug. 24.—Sleep and then some more sleep. Such is Alma Gluck's remedy for all the ills that flesh is heir to.



ALMA GLUCK

Like Shakespeare, the famous opera star believes that sleep is the chief nourisher in life's feast. Alma sailed from New York on the Cunarder Aquitania. She is going to spend most of her time abroad sleeping, she declares. This is her itinerary as she outlined it to a reporter:

A week in bed on the way over.
A week of slumber in London.
Night boat to France, with sleep.
Night train to Paris, with sleep.
A week of sleep in Paris.
Night sleeper to Venice.
Week of sleep in Venice and then back home and more sleep en route.

New Control for Torpedoes

New York, Aug. 24.—John Hays Hammond, jr., announced today the perfecting of a system of torpedo control whereby torpedoes may be fired in a curved course.

Under this system, Mr. Hammond explained, a battleship or destroyer may fire a torpedo at a target without changing the course of the vessel. The torpedo can be made to make a turn in mid-course of almost any degree. Submarines equipped with this device, he says, could attack two enemy ships at once.

IDEALIST AGREES TO TEST OF HIS SANITY

Michelson Tells Roxbury Court He Will Go to Psychopathic Hospital

Carl Michelson, Danish idealist and friend of Count Tolstoy, the Russian novelist, has agreed to a formal test of his sanity.

He was arraigned in the Roxbury District Court today charged with having attempted to force his way into the room of Miss Augusta Pearson of Harlow street, Roxbury, and also jointly with the young woman, in another act of his charge.

After the act complained Michelson told Judge Farmer that he was quite willing to go to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation as to his sanity.

Upon that understanding both cases against him were continued until September 2.

LOVING ARMS AWAIT HIM.

If he establishes his sanity and is cleared of the charges against him it was said in court that he would go to Worcester, where the loving arms of another woman are declared to be waiting him.

His attorney read a letter to the court from Miss Pearson in part the proof of the claim made by the defense that Michelson intends to forgive and forget the refusal of Miss Pearson to heed his appeals for love and understanding.

The epistle urged him "to come away from that woman. Come to me and we will be married at once."

CHARGES ASSAULT.

The complaint against Michelson and Miss Pearson grew out of accusations the girl made following a falling out. She had the idealist arrested on a charge of having threatened her life and with having assaulted her.

Michelson pleaded not guilty to these charges and made a dramatic appeal on arraignment some days ago.

He declared he was absolutely without funds and asked newspaper reporters to assist him in raising money for his defence by printing an appeal to the general public.

The life story that Michelson tells reads like the story of a hero in fiction, and he issues a solemn warning to all men "to keep away from women," declaring that all of his troubles came through them.

To substantiate the warning he has from time to time given out stories of his own experience as a globe trotter, lecturer and soldier of fortune.

SHIPMENT OF GREEN FIGS ON WAY HERE

The first shipment of green figs ever to have been sold in Boston will reach this city Monday. This announcement was made today by the California Fruit Distributors, who represent the California Fig Growers in New England. A great deal is at stake on the success with which these figs are sold. If they bring a price high enough to meet expenses it means that within the course of a few years there will have a place among the leading fresh fruits sold in Boston. The figs will be sent side by side with apples, pears, peaches and oranges on all fruit stands. It will also mean that the fruit growers of California will have captured the market in this country in another line of fruit which formerly was supplied entirely by foreign countries.

Fresh figs are highly perishable and many difficulties were encountered in packing them and shipping them so that they would reach the Eastern markets in proper condition.

NEWPORT PASSENGER BOAT HIT BY TORPEDO

Providence, R. I., Aug. 24.—Panic among the 200 passengers on the steamboat Mineola of the People's Line during the run from Providence to Newport and Pawtucket, was narrowly averted when the boat was struck by a drifting mine or by a naval torpedo fired from a government boat off Conanicut Island, it was learned. Frightened passengers crowded to the rail when the alarm was shouted from the pilot house as the torpedo headed toward the boat. It was not until it struck that the crowd learned the torpedo was one of the practise type and harmless. The boat was undamaged.

New American Girl Excels Goddess Type, Says Boston Woman Doctor

Wider Waists Taking the Place of Wasp Waists; Exercise Is Fitting Women for Active Modern Life

By HAZEL CANNING.

Waists are wider—by several inches.

Muscles are stouter—to stand strain of wind and wave and work.

The clinging vine now clings no longer, as women, physically, are coming into their own. Coming into their proper, fitting muscular inheritance, denied them through the ages. Into their abiding, firm inheritance of good, solid flesh, toughened nerves, unfluttered endurance, steady poise and balance.

This way—a new type of American women is evolving—a woman "active, yet appreciatively sensitive." And it is the characterization and the prophecy of Dr. Blanche A. Denig, medical director of the Durant Gymnasium.

NEW AMERICAN WOMAN.

Dr. Denig is a Boston physician, in her gracious middle life, who has devoted all her professional days to women. Particularly toward the building up of this new American woman, fit to stand results, to take punishment, to do her work with gladness in her heart—and, after that, to have strength enough of mind and heart and body left to play in the after hours.

Dr. Denig came to talk of the new, muscular, American woman, apropos of a statement given out by William Herrmann, physical training expert down in Philadelphia.

"Women's waists are inches wider," said that gentleman, "and the average woman now is pounds heavier than she used to be. This extra weight is not fat. It's muscle."

"Quite right," said Dr. Denig. "Women began to increase in weight and height and waist line more than twenty years ago. They've kept it up steadily ever since. Though the change was physical, nature was as spiritual and a moral cause behind it.

"We remember a lady most graphically, when the woman, to please her husband, must be a type of sofa-cushion, pink-and-white, languid, clinging vine. In fact, in those days, a woman was hardly ladylike if she had an appetite and a muscle. But, as Dr. Denig explained, times have changed.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

"Today is the day of the strong young woman, who goes out into the world, gets a hard day's work, hot days and cold days, and works with all the energy of her active young body, and earns her living, and shows to all the world that mother's daughter has given a good account of herself, as well as mother's does. Because of this, women's ideals of physical beauty and well being have changed.

"Mother's waist, for example, was bought an 18 or a 20 or a 22 inch corset and pulled the strings, and made for herself a deadly, slender waist. But now the modern young woman goes out to her work, often leaving off her corset, and comes back to her gymnasium where, by regular exercise of her muscles, she becomes, in her way, as toughened for the work of life, as her big brother.

"We have today two types of American woman. One approaches the goddess type, like that Venus de Milo whom we all admire so much. And she is the perfect woman, physically, and the beautiful, as well. Our second type of new American woman is not of heroic proportions as the Venus. She is smaller, but wiry. She is the happy medium, firm of flesh, of normal stature. She is endowed with energy and a sensitiveness for the finer things, perhaps more so than the Venus De Milo type.

"This new American woman, still evolving, is alert, firm, active, strong, appreciatively sensitive.

POISE AND STRENGTH.

"For she has won her poise and her strength and her agility in the gymnasium. There is nothing she cannot keep a young woman fit for her work and her play than the well-regulated woman's gymnasium. But right here I would sound a warning. I don't like to see women exercising as violently as men would exercise. I like to see their exercise organized, and under an expert.

"And I like to see exercises to develop elasticity and keenness take the place of heavy exercise. Then, out-of-door exercise for women is very important. For, in all her endeavors, the young woman must remember that she was made to be a mother.

"Exercise to make women responsible; exercise to teach them fine, fair play, and loyalty and good fellowship; exercise to supply exhilaration of body and spirits. That is why we, at the Durant, proposed new recreation centre for women and girls. I would like to see them, in Boston, correct posture, correct standing and sitting become second nature with a group of the best women of our city. They would set the example.

"And it would not be long before all other women would follow. For today, as never before, women's possibilities are endless. But to meet these we need, first, health; second, self-confidence, which comes through health; third, a self-control by which we shall act, not as we feel, but as we should.

"And, in large measure, women have attained these already. And this is the reason why our waists are wider, our height two inches greater and the length of woman's life some three years more than it used to be in the days of our mothers."

THE OLD AND THE NEW—WHICH?

SIR SAM HUGHES, CANADIAN WAR HERO, DEAD

Former Minister of Militia Won Fame for Energy in Transporting Troops

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 24.—Sir Sam Hughes died today at his home here. He was minister of militia during the World War and became known throughout the allied countries for the energy he displayed in getting the Canadian contingent overseas.

Samuel Hughes, who won the nickname of "The Canadian Kitchener" during the first year of the World War, was born at Durnham, Ont., January 5, 1853.

When the Boer War broke out in the closing years of the last century he was professor of English literature at the University of Toronto as well as the owner of a newspaper.

Because of his age, however, he was refused permission to go with the Canadian contingent to South Africa. Ignoring this rebuff he paid his own passage to Cape Town, where he enlisted in the British army as a private.

Through his influence the militia in Canada has been raised to a position unique in the empire. Seventy thousand acres in Alberta have been set aside for its use. Here horses fit for its use are raised, and he aimed at raising 25,000 high-bred horses a year from this and other large ranches.

When the World War broke out his work showed, and Canada was able to throw 20,000 men overseas with hardly any delay.

New York, Aug. 24.—Father James A. O'Shea had stopped a battle in China and saved the federal troops from being slaughtered.

The invaders were raining bombs in the yard of the general in command of Kochow, hoisting his forces were outnumbered and were dying under the incessant fire, he asked Father Meyer to try to arrange a truce.

Meyer and Father O'Shea mounted the ancient wall of the town and waved an American flag to attract the besieging forces commander.

BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO IN SAUGUS

Fourteen-year-old Nathale Cacciola of No. 9 Columbia street, Revere, was almost instantly killed on the Newburyport turnpike, Saugus, by an auto operated by Mrs. Edith Hussey of No. 1202 Commonwealth avenue, Allston.

The boy died while being conveyed to the Melrose Hospital in the Saugus police ambulance.

Mrs. Hussey was placed under arrest by Chief Thompson of the Saugus police on a charge of manslaughter and later released in $1,000 bail for her appearance Saturday before Judge Lyons in Lynn District Court.

The boy had been visiting Saugus friends for the day and was frolicking with other playmates on the side of the road when struck.

According to Mrs. Hussey's story to the police, the boy darted directly in the path of the oncoming machine, despite an effort of another playmate to snatch him from the jaws of death. His playmates ran away.

Identification was not made until several hours later. When their son did not arrive home for supper, Mr. and Mrs. Cacciola, having learned of the accident, got in touch with the Saugus police, and later visited the hospital where positive identification was made.

The boy's skull was fractured. There was a fracture of the upper and lower jaw and internal injuries.

U. S. TO RECALL MARINES FROM PANAMA

Isthmian Republic Will Not Oppose Occupation of Coto by Costa Rica

Washington, Aug. 24.—The government of Panama has assured the United States that she will not resist the occupation of the Coto region by Costa Rica.

Meanwhile United States marines are en route to Panama, having been dispatched when it appeared that Costa Rica might met with resistance when she attempted to occupy the region granted her under the terms of the Lenroot-White award.

The marines will land, but probably will return home as soon as transportation can be arranged for them, it was learned at the Navy Department.

Panama's assurance that she will abide by the decision of the United States as mediator followed the dispatch of a State Department note, stating that this government would not tolerate any interference on her part.

"The United States," the note declared, "cannot permit a renewal of hostilities by Panama against Costa Rica by reasons of Costa Rica now taking possession of that territory."

The Panama-Costa Rica situation was discussed at the Cabinet meeting, and the various steps taken by this government were outlined by Secretary of State Hughes.

Following the meeting it was officially stated that the whole course of procedure had met with the hearty approval of President Harding. With the receipt of the note from Panama, the incident appears to be all but closed, officials explained.

HAPGOOD LAUDS MOVEMENT OF ZIONISTS

Raps Its Critics and Asserts Plan Is Moral, Humble and Full of Abnegation

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.
Staff Correspondent Boston American.

Washington, Aug. 24.—"Two more articles," I said to myself a few weeks ago, "about the Jews. Their problems are interesting, but they are in such a state just now that discussion will do more harm than good."

Developments since then have made me change my mind. The problems insist on keeping stirred up, so the best course is to shed light.

The Arabs have been protesting in Palestine, no doubt stirred up by anti-Zionist elements.

Two of the most prominent Jews in America have been giving wide publicity to their difference of opinion about the Zionist ideal. Both leave out the particular angle of it that to me gives its strongest appeal.

ANTI-SEMITIC ORGAN.

A secret society in the United States is being diverted from its original purpose into a distinctively anti-Semitic organ. It is now organized in about thirty-eight States for this purpose.

Mr. Henry Ford, of course, keeps up his disreputable enterprise of circulating his personal organ entirely on what race-hatred he can stir up.

There are many like him in Europe, except that there the anti-Semitic campaign is now, as always, a familiar weapon of black reaction, the drive being conducted against the present Liberal German government constantly expressing itself in anti-Semitic terms.

Not since the days of the Dreyfus plot on France and the Beylis plot in Russia has there been a stronger outbreak in the world of this particular species of flesh disease, left over from the insane religious passions of the Middle Ages.

FACE FRUGALITY.

Zionism, rightly looked at, should be a corrective to these diseases of so-called Christian societies. It shows the Jews, not as competitors and thus making enemies for economic reasons, but going to a remote, bare land, facing everlasting frugality, for the mere purpose of living for an ideal.

Is that spectacle one that we can afford to shatter, in these days when the translation of everything into material ambition is what most threatens this world?

In that most stimulating book, "The Letters of William James," we find these words:

"As for me, my bed is made. I am against bigness and greatness in all their forms, and with the invisible molecular forces that work from individuals, stealing in through the crannies of the world like so many soft roots. The bigger the unit you deal with, the hollower, the more brutal, the more mendacious is the life displayed."

"I am," James goes on, "against all big successes and big results."

PALESTINE IDEAL.

The Palestine ideal is the ideal of a group of earnest people who can never expect to see their national home grow large or rich or powerful. All their hope is that it may be the centre of spiritual aspiration, of beautiful literary language, threatened with death, of the moral stimulation that traces itself back for 6,000 years.

A Jew of the highest intelligence, himself a Zionist, sends me these words from Euripides:

"O strength of God, slow art Thou and still,
Yet dost Thy will!
On them that wrongly the ruthless will
On that that dream, doth His tidemest wait.
Dreams of the proud man, making great,
And greater ever,
Things which are not of God."

The critics of Zionism ramble over many points. They seldom seem to realize how moral, how humble, how full of abnegation the movement is. Once in a while a truly religious, or truly ethical, or truly spiritual and self-sacrificing movement appears in our frenzied earth, threatening nobody, seeking only the spirit's laborious victory. Why this eagerness to cast stones at the upward effort?

PLAYWRIGHT'S SON IN JAIL "FOR VAGRANCY"

Batavia, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Among a number of vagrants arraigned before Justice William J. Tyrrell here, was Ryan Shipman, 21-year-old son of Louis Evans Shipman, prominent author and playwright.

The Shipman family lives at Brook Place, a few miles from Cornish, where President Wilson had his Summer home for several years.

Young Shipman had ambitions to become a writer and started from Plainfield in search of local color. He is in jail awaiting a check from his father to carry him back to his home.

LEGION ENVOYS ENJOY REST IN "GAY PAREE"

Paris, Aug. 24.—Members of the American Legion, who for the past two weeks have visited many points in Eastern France and have taken part in manifold ceremonies, were in Paris today enjoying a rest.

The formal functions planned for the Americans will be resumed tomorrow and will continue for three days, when the visitors will leave on a trip to Belgium.

ISHII WILL REPORT SILESIA CASE HIMSELF

Paris, Aug. 24.—Viscount Ishii, President of the Council of the League of Nations, has solved the difficulty caused by the declination of Count Quinones De Leon, Spanish Ambassador to France, to serve as reporter to the league on the question of Upper Silesia, recently referred to the league's council by the Allied Supreme Council. Viscount Ishii, it was announced today, will make the presentation of the case to the council himself.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

ALTHOUGH the circular skirt is not greatly liked by the Parisian, the couturiers are putting forward ine interesting effects in tunics and coats. A smartly tailored blue gabardine coat (it the left), worn during the Grande Semaine had a full circular skirt which flared becomingly. The bodice section was cut with the popular exaggerated fulness under the arm, the long kimono sleeves adding to this effect. The girdle was cut in one with the body, and the collar, a straight high band, fastened with a single large button at one side of the front.

AN effective handling of the circular tunic is sh in the good looking taileur of gray gabardine at the right. Th inic, which makes a complete skirt over the narrow underskirt, is abo.. two inches shorter than the under section. The feature of this taileur really is the over blouse jacket which crosses surplice fishion at the left side, the ends falling almost to the edge of the tunic. Black faille makes the collar and the buttons are black and gray. While this model is made to wear with a soft blouse of gray chiffon or crepe, it may also be worn as a dress with neck and sleeve frills.

WOOD DEMANDS TARIFF TO FOIL GERMAN AIMS

President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company, back in America after a business trip in Europe, is firmly convinced that the United States must expect keen business competition from Germany and that the only way o combat it is by erecting a tariff wall.

Mr. Wood views a tariff high enough to protect manufacturers against a German "invasion" not only as desirable but essential.

Germany alone is threatening American manufacturing supremacy, according to Wood, because Germany alone is working hard to regain her industrial place in the sun.

France has adopted a fatalistic attitude which is causing its citizens to muddle along aimlessly, trusting to the future for prosperity instead of working toward that end.

The English are not even muddling, according to the American Woolen Company magnate. They are just "loafing."

"The streets of London and Glasgow are full of idle men," President Wood said. "There seems to be a reluctance to work which is paralyzing industries all over England and Scotland. The workers are holding out for high wages instead of following the example of the Germans and getting to work to produce something. Mills are idle all over the British Isles."

Mr. Wood found France hampered by a drought which is destroying crops and a dead rot which is killing business.

DRAFT STRIKE BALLOT FOR RAIL UNIONS

By International News Service

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Work of drafting a strike ballot so that all the issues involved in the dispute between the members of the "Big Four" railway unions, the railroads and the Railway Labor Board, may be presented to the union membership, is being carried on today at the offices of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Engineers, in which the executives of the three other brotherhoods and of the Switchmen's Union are participating.

When the form of the ballot is approved it will be mailed to the local unions throughout the United States and Canada and it is anticipated that at least a month will be required to collect and tabulate the returns, thus deferring final action on a strike if one is called until about October 1.

'BOOTLEGGERS' KEEP CHICAGO VERY 'WET'

Whisky Flowing Freely; Bootleggers Thrive; Report Shows

(This is the eighth of a series of special articles exposing the gigantic million-dollar operations of the bootlegging "ring" and allied criminal industries. It will be followed by two others, based on personal investigation and official information from government sources.)

By W. B. SEABROOK.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Whiskey is being sold today across 3,500 bars in Chicago, in addition to the vast amount that is being peddled in bottles, jugs and gasoline cans by waiters, taxi drivers, chauffeurs, porters—a great, motley army of retail bootleggers.

An analysis of the local "wet" situation, based on direct investigation and interviews with John Kjellander, the new federal prohibition director for Illinois, shows three outstanding obstacles in the way of an immediate, more rigid enforcement of the Volstead law.

First, is the clogged condition of the courts, in which 5,000 bootlegging cases are pending in Chicago alone. When new arrests are made, the offenders are released on bond, and frequently continue their criminal operations pending the indefinite date of trial.

Second, is the limited field force of the federal prohibition office here. The director has only 17 men on his Chicago "blotter squad," and only 39 men in the whole State.

Third, is the red tape surrounding the procedure by which arrests can be made.

Numerous other obstacles have to be combatted, including public indifference, the tendency on the part of many people, even including jurors, to treat prohibition lightly, and the widespread evil of prescription forgeries.

A favorite method here is the staging of real or fake "thefts" while the stuff is in transit from one warehouse to another. The wholesale owner applies for permission to move his liquor. Under the law he has a right to move it at once. He puts up a bond of $2.50 a gallon and ships it off, either by railway or truck. The liquor disappears enroute. It is reported "stolen."

The agents may be morally sure that the owner knows exactly what became of it and has been fully compensated at high bootleg prices, but it is next to impossible to catch a man in such a transaction and no penalty can be inflicted except forfeiture of the small bond.

CITY HALL GIRLS DISAPPROVE OF 'KNICKERS'

"Real Cute," But Not Feminine and "Too Distracting" Are Some of Comments

Knickers for City Hall girls?

Nothing doing!

Mayor Andrew J. Peters suggested it after seeing a bevy of knickerclad damsels who were piloted to his office by an official of the Associated Millinery Industry of New England. The nifty knickers were used to display the new sport hats worn by girls, but no one at City Hall can recall anything about the chapeaus.

After the girls left the Mayor said he thought the knickers were fine and he believed it would be a good idea for the girls in his office to don them during business hours.

GIRLS DISAGREE.

But listen to what the girls say.

Gertrude Smith, attractive private telephone operator:

"I do not approve of knickers for business wear. They are neither modest nor feminine in appearance.

"While it is true that I believe in rolled down stockings for the business girl, for I wear them that way myself, and moderately short skirts, I cannot give my O. K. to knickers for street or business wear.

"I believe that deep down in his heart the Mayor does not approve of them for business wear.

TOO "DISTRACTING."

"For one thing they are too distracting. In most offices the wearing of knickers by shapely young women would interfere with the office morale.

"When the six knicker-clad girls visited the Mayor's office I noticed that many male employes at the hall suddenly discovered that they had 'urgent' business in His Honor's office. Knickers are all right in their place the same as pajamas. Neither would be fitting in a business office."

GIRLS WHIPPED BY BLACK AND TANS

Connolly Tells of Miss Connery's Story of Outrages in Limerick

TORTURED IRELAND

By JAMES B. CONNOLLY, Famous New England Author and Journalist.

On leaving Limerick the other day I had a long interview with a girl whose brother had been arrested and brought to the military barracks. She and her married sister went to ask about food for him.

There were a number of other women on the same errand. When they had got almost to the military barracks two or three lorry loads of Black and Tans dashed furiously up and jumped out. Some of them had, in addition to the other weapons, ash plants. And they struck and beat these women over the head and shoulders with the ash plants.

"Sisters of murderers and the wives of murderers. What are they coming there to feed murderers for? An ash plant is a stick, a stout, heavy cudgel, a branch off an ash tree.

BRAVERY OF GIRL.

They also used whips as well; laid about the head and shoulders with these, too. The wardens are afraid to protest, to say anything. They are prison officials, but they are terrified of the Black and Tans, who build about them if they liked, there being no law whatsoever to control them.

Anyway, they beat these two young women with these sticks and then they were not content with that. One of them is a moral degenerate. His name is Sergt. Horan, in the William Street barracks.

He drinks terribly and he takes a fiendish delight in inflicting cruelty. He has beaten women and children. So this brute was there and he recognized this girl, and not content with slashing her over the head and shoulders, he yelled out to some of the Black and Tans to put her up terrified by the Black and Tans, who into the lorry.

So they put her up, and for one hour pushed and insulted and pitched and punched her from one end to the other of the lorry. Their language was indescribable. Then they were going to shoot her. She said: "All right. Shoot me. I don't mind."

They didn't shoot her, but that is the order these women have to face every day. Some of them are very brave.

"WHAT ABOUT 1918"?

They came with searchlight and armored cars to raid Miss Madge Daly's place at night. In one of the raids they had before they burned her out completely, burned her furniture and possessions.

The military this night were very offensive. She talked back to them, saying to one officer:

"It is very brave to come into a house where there is only one or two girls and two old ladies worn out with trouble and cares, but what about 1918 when Haig wired that his back was to the wall and when Lloyd George shrieked over to America for help?

"It is very easy to make war on old men and men who have no weapons, but when you had your backs to the wall in 1918 if it wasn't for the Americans where would you be?"

He said: "Americans? All the Americans did for us was to send us two men and a mule." He was quite vicious when she reminded him: "If the Americans hadn't come you wouldn't have the life in you to torment women now."

M. P. TORTURED.

Another thing, the way they bring out hostages in Limerick. Mr. Colivet, M. P. for Limerick, was treated awful badly in prison. They put him in a cell where there was no air. He nearly died of asphyxiation. They put him in an old disused place that had not been used for years. They denied that in Parliament, but it is true.

During the week I was in Limerick Mr. Colivet was brought out in a lorry through the streets of Limerick, handcuffed, with his arms attached by chains to the side of the lorry. And they also beat him and knocked him about and tried to gouge out one of his eyes while he was in the prison.

He hadn't been very long married. They have two very young children and his wife is expecting a baby. But he was brought out when I was in Limerick, handcuffed, chained to the lorry, quite helpless.

Two lay prisoners volunteered to go out as hostages instead of Mr. Colivet. But they wouldn't have that, they wanted him to be killed—in any case, degraded.

Mr. Colivet died in an internment camp while I was in Limerick.—J. B. C.

TWO YOUTHS SHOT

Mr. Maloney, M. P., of Tipperary, is on the run. Last Christmas night they burned his house. They drove his wife and daughter out with revolvers. They were not allowed to take anything; driven out into the night, Christmas night.

Since then, and before that, indeed, the father and three sons have been on the run. Poor Mrs. Maloney went to Limerick with no clothes, except her nightdress and coat, and found refuge in a small house there.

Last Sunday the Black and Tans surrounded the house where she was living. There were two boys in the house, young Maloney and another boy. They were shot.

Continued Tomorrow.

Blackhanders Make Threat to Kidnap Alderman's Child

Fall River, Aug. 24.—Alderman Samuel Edmondson, of Ward 6, residing at No. 246 Beattie street, has turned over to the police authorities a mysterious letter which he has received and in which a demand was made upon him to place three hundred dollars under his doorstep under penalty of having his daughter kidnaped and roughly treated.

The letter also contained a small piece of wax wrapped up in paper upon which was written the word "danger."

NAVIES ONLY FOR U. S., BRITAIN AND JAPAN

English Plan Would Give the League of Nations Big Edge on America

By C. F. BERTELLI.

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Aug. 24.—It is declared by the highest authority that Great Britain will suggest at the League of Nations Assembly in September that only the United States, England and Japan be permitted to have navies.

At the same time an offer will be made of the use of the British and Japanese fleets for service under direction of the League of Nations "to keep order throughout the world."

Japan is understood to have given her full consent to such an arrangement. No mention is to be made regarding use of the American navy, as the United States is not a member of the league. It is pointed out, however, that if such an idea is adopted it would give the league a tremendous preponderance of power over the United States.

As the league is controlled by England, the staggering inferiority of Great Britain's move has simply amazed diplomats here who describe it as a daring attempt to remove forever all menace of American naval superiority.

It is pointed out that in any future disagreement between the United States and Great Britain the latter would only have to invoke the aid of the league in order to have the whip hand.

England's projected move may also be taken as an effort to counteract Washington's veto of the preliminary conference to the disarmament congress. By this means also England hopes to strengthen the league and restore confidence in it, thus preventing further growth of sentiment in favor of President Harding's suggested association of nations.

Observers have said they expect the French delegates to support the move as it is in line with the French idea that huge naval expense is unnecessary.

Comedians Also Feature Revue by Canadian Ex-Soldiers at Wilbur

By FRED J. McISAAC.
Dramatic Editor.

"The Dumbells," who are playing at the Wilbur, are a troupe of Canadian ex-soldiers, who are continuing at this late date an entertainment which was originally staged in France behind the British front.

There were many such entertainments produced by soldiers of all armies during the war. That this has survived is a testimonial to its merit.

The company is a co-operative one, all the members drawing exactly the same weekly salary whether they are just in the chorus or playing principal parts; an arrangement which would probably appeal to part of the membership of the Actor's Equity.

Among these co-operative soldier-actors are a half dozen men who have exceptional talent. There are at least three comedians, a half dozen singers and several female impersonators whose work is astonishingly good.

If we have to have female impersonators, and I don't know why we should, Rose Hamilton is the nearest thing to Julian Eltinge who has arrived on the scene as yet. Hamilton makes a really beautiful woman with all the feminine graces, and a falsetto soprano which has been developed until it is better than the natural voice of the average musical soprano. It's a shock to see him remove his wig in the final scene.

In Red Newman the Dumbells own a low comedian with a manner all his own. Jimmie Goode as a black face artist, with proper material would make Tinney, Cantor, Jolson and other burnt cork specialists travel fast. Ian McLaren, too, can drag out the laughter, and Alan Murray and Charles McLean are admirable grotesque female impersonators.

The show the Dumbells put on is a home made affair. Most of the music has been "assembled" from all sources and some of it is very hackneyed.

WEST ROXBURY GIRL NOW "MISS MOSELEY, 1921"

Miss Leoma Davis, of West Roxbury, has changed her name without getting married. They are calling her Miss Moseley, 1921. Miss Davis was chosen by a board of judges as the prettiest and most graceful girl among several hundred at Moseley's on the Charles, and awarded a silver loving cup, which carries the title of "Miss Moseley, 1921." Miss Davis is said to be the most attractive girl who ever won the title.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By Frieda Davis

THERE won't be an angle of Douglas Fairbanks' "Three Musketeers" that can be sneezed at by the sternest of the movie industry's stern critics. Even the music is something extra-special for the occasion, for the King of France had a hand in the making, although, we must add, he didn't know it at the time.

Louise XIII, King of France in the seventeenth century, composed a piece, "Amaryllis," when he was still in his teens. This music was originally written on a staff of four lines and for four voices.

Doug has engaged Louis Gottschalk, a composer, to prepare the appropriate music for his superpicture. The opening of the orchestration will include the original music written by King Louis. This is in honor of the memory of this monarch, whose counterpart is seen in several of the early scenes of the film. In addition to this, another part of the score—the part which introduces Marguerite de la Motte as the heroine, Constance, to be exact—was written by the father of Louis XIII, King Henry IV.

Gottschalk is also arranging a special score for Mary Pickford's production, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," though we understand royalty did take a hand.

HOBART HENLEY FOR UNIVERSAL

HOBART Henley, one time leading man of note and since then a director, has signed up to make a series of big productions for Universal. He left the West coast last week to start work immediately.

Mr. Henley has run the gamut of film work. Years ago he became a player when D. W. Griffith was directing the Biograph features. At that time he appeared with Mary Pickford, Wallace Reid, Marshall Neilan, Thomas Ince and others who have since become famous. Then he went to Universal as a star. Later he wrote stories for the screen and the opportunity to direct one of his own productions was given him. Since then he has made a number of pictures for Goldwyn.

BACK TO HIS BOOKS.

NOW that Harrison Ford has finished work on the Cosmopolitan production, "Find the Woman," from the Arthur Somers Roche story of that name, he is giving up all his time to delving among his books before he starts in on another picture.

Harrison Ford

While other leading men spend their hard-earned money in motors and such things, Ford spends his on books of all sorts, particularly rare first editions. He already has a valuable collection that is the wonder of his friends.

CAMERA CLICKS.

Pauline Frederick is ready to start on her new Robertson-Cole film, "The Lure of the Jade," from the story by Marion Orth. Colin Campbell will direct. Miss Frederick's newest production, "The Sting of the Lash," is using excitement among he fans because, instead of appearing in gorgeous gowns, she is seen as a drab ranchwoman.

Colleen Moore has been chosen as just the right type for the next Rupert Hughes story, "The Wall Flower," which E. Mason Hopper will direct. Richard Dix will appear opposite her. "The Wall Flower" provides Miss Moore with the "fattest" part that Mr. Hughes has yet written for a player, which speaks volumes for it.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH is speeding production on "The Two Orphans," and it is rumored that he may make an elaborate revival of his early picture, "The Sands of Dee." He has promised to put Mae Marah in his next film.

WIDOW HELD AS ACCESSORY IN MURDER CASE

Mrs. Annie Statkus of Stoughton Fails to Furnish Bonds and Goes to Jail

Stoughton, Aug. 24.—Following a hearing in the District Court here, Mrs. Annie Statkus was held for the grand jury in bonds of $25,000 on a charge of being an accessory after the fact in connection with the killing of her husband by Adolph Poucewicz. The latter was a boarder in the house and is charged with shooting Statkus.

Unable to furnish bonds the woman was taken to the Dedham jail. The accused widow was represented by Attorney Callahan of Brockton. No testimony for the defence was introduced. Mrs. Statkus has two children.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS OF GREATER BOSTON

Wedding of New Yorkers at Ipswich of Interest

By BETTY ALDEN.

Quite a number of Bostonians who pass their Summer along the North Shore will be among the guests at the wedding of Miss Mary Appleton Wood and Louis Bromfield, both of New York, which will be solemnized October 19 in Ascension Memorial Church, Ipswich. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Wood, of No. 20 East Eighty-third street, who have a Summer estate, "Briar Hill," at Ipswich. The Rev. William Lawrence Wood, a brother of Miss Wood, will officiate. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bromfield. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents. There seems to be a rather large number of prominent weddings slated for the Fall social calendar.

Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd, who have been in England, have returned to Manchester and will spend the remainder of the season with Mrs. Shaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell, at "Glendyne."

Speaking of the North Shore calls to mind the fact that the recent fair held at Beverly Farms enriched St. John's Episcopal Church parish house by $1,850. Among the matrons who arranged the fair were Mrs. Alvin Sortwell, Mrs. John L. Thorndike and Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins, Jr.

Charity will have its way. Even though the Davis Cup finals which take up this week-end, and the Horse Show staged for the first three days of next week, promise to keep Newport society unusually busy, charity is not being neglected. Not a few of the members of the Summer colony have purchased boxes for the presentation of "Very Good Eddie" at the Training Station Armory which will be given next Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the benefit of the Navy Aid Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Eliot, of Cambridge will be the hosts of Viscount Brice and Lady Bryce when the latter visit them at their Summer home in Northeast Harbor, Maine. Viscount and Lady Bryce, immediately after the Viscount completes his lectures at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, will pass several days, beginning August 28, with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Montague at the latter's Summer home, "Beaulieu," at Seal Harbor, Maine. After that the Viscount and his wife will pay a visit to the former President of Harvard and Mrs. Eliot.

Colonel William A. Gaston, of Bay State road, was among the passengers of the Cunard liner Acquitania, which sailed Tuesday for Southampton, via Cherbourg. Several well-known people sailed on the Acquitania, including Alma Gluck, the opera star.

Moving pictures are to be shown at Horticultural Hall, in Manchester, on Friday and Saturday evenings for the fund in the interest of the North Shore Horticultural Society, in which all of the colonists are interested. Mrs. Augustus N. Hanteul, Miss Margaret Corliss, Mrs. Jefferson Coolidge and Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield are on the committee in charge of the affair.

Miss Anne Bowen, the daughter of Stephen Bowen, of No. 819 Beacon street, is at present traveling abroad. Miss Bowen has held offices in the Sewing Circle at various times.

MISS ANNE BOWEN —Photo by White.

Mrs. Grenville Kane and Miss Susan P. Sturgis, of Boston, are among the recent registrants at the Casino, Newport.

Mrs. Lawrence Lewis Gillespie is to give a dinner Friday evening for Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, 2nd. Mr. Warren Cojeman of New York is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie at their Bellevue avenue residence.

Mrs. Irvin McD. Garfield, of Marlboro street, is one of the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Garfield at Williamstown. Mr. and Mrs. James Garfield, who were with them, left today for Mentor, O.

Lars Anderson was among the passengers arriving in New York on the White Star Liner Baltic from Liverpool. Mr. Anderson, who was formerly American ambassador to Japan, is the owner of a large estate in Brookline known as "Weld." Returning on the same boat with Mr. Anderson were Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Choate, Jr., and Robert B. Choate, of Southboro.

'HUMAN CORK' TO BE A FEATURE AT BIG SWIM

The "human cork," who has puzzled thousands of people by his ability to remain afloat in all kinds of positions for long periods, will entertain spectators at the Boston American water carnival in Charles River Basin next Saturday afternoon when 300 girl swimmers will race for the championship of New England and five good prizes.

In private life the "human cork" is Daniel Donnell of No. 396 Millbury street, Worcester. He says he cannot sink and those who saw him give a private exhibition in Charles River Basin, near Union Boat Club yesterday, were astonished at the stunts he did.

He floated face downward, stretched out at full length on his back with hands and feet out of water, holding his knees, holding his toe and walking through the water with no movement of his hands.

This added attraction, together with special exhibition of swimming by Charlie Toth, who recently swam to Boston light from Charlestown bridge in a storm, will make Saturday's program especially attractive.

Mrs. May Roy Humphrey, of Framingham Centre, will be the matron in charge of the girls' dressing tent. She will be assisted by other capable women.

Additional officials already chosen for the event are as follows:

Starter—Jack Lane of Columbia Road Gymnasium.

Timers—James L. Walsh, Superintendent of Baths of City of Boston; Joe McNamara, Charlesbank Gymnasium, and Dick Adler of Brookline.

Examining physician—Dr. John H. F. Connors, of Back Bay.

Judges—Theodore Kunig, champion long distance swimmer of Switzerland, George Grimm and John J. Cutbert of Dorchester.

Lifeguard captain—John J. (Jaffit) Flaherty.

Launches—In charge of Lieutenant Albert Chapman, of Metropolitan Park Commission; assisted by Sergeant Breivogel.

Stake boat—"Bob" Carey, Charlie Toth, "Doc" W. E. Crockett and Fred Mardo, secretary L Street Bathers' Club.

One hundred forty-six girls have entered for the swim. Among the latest entries are the following:

Helen Donovan, 17, No. 103 Hollis avenue, Atlantic.

Lena Benway, 18, North street, Ludlow.

Katherine Kiernan, 18, No. 77 West Brookline street, Boston.

Augusta Losaex, 18, Somerville.

DISARMAMENT PARLEY HELP TO BUSINESS

Effect Will Be "Little Less Than Miraculous" If People Aid, Says Crissinger

By Associated Press.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Effects of the coming disarmament conference upon business and industrial problems will be "little less than miraculous" if the assembly is viewed in the proper frame of mind by the American people, Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger declared in an address today before the Cotton States Merchants Association in convention here.

"We are coming," Mr. Crissinger said, "upon the time of definite, conscious and specific measures of world reorganization. We have passed the era of inspirational successes and are getting down to brass nails of practical facts and feasible accomplishments.

"Within the next two months there will meet in Washington what we all earnestly hope will be the most important international conference the world has ever known."

In the process of economic readjustment through which the country is passing, Crissinger asserted, it is highly important that bankers and business men unite in any program adequate to present necessities.

ANOTHER BOMB SHAKES NORWALK MAN'S HOME

South Norwalk, Ct., Aug. 24.—A bomb was exploded early today in front of a lodging house in Wood street kept by Luigi Apicella. The front part of the three-story structure was badly torn. The bomb was set off in the open. A month ago a bomb of less force did no damage, but an explosion several months ago wrecked the back stoop.

Apicella claims to have received letters signed "The Black Hand," demanding $4,000, a part of which he said he had paid, but had refused to settle the balance.

DISABLED CRAFT IS TOWED TO BOSTON

West Lianga's Engines Failed Several Days Ago Off Grand Banks

Her engines disabled, the Shipping Board steamship West Lianga was towed into Boston harbor today by her sister ship, the West Selene, which picked up the helpless craft between the Grand Banks and this port.

The West Lianga, like the West Selene, was bound for New York, but will remain here for repairs while the other vessel proceeded on her way after a quarantine inspection.

The West Lianga left Rotterdam August 2, and had completed the greater part of her voyage when a break in the machinery left the vessel rolling helplessly.

A wireless call for aid was answered by the West Selene, the nearest vessel, which had sailed from Hull August 6. The West Selene took the other vessel in tow and as Boston was the nearest port of importance, headed here.

New Way to Curl Hair Fine for Outdoor Girl

The simplest method of curling the hair is the proper thing before going motoring, boating or golfing, or indulging in any outdoor sport or exercise. This will not only give the hair the most beautiful wavy and curly appearance imaginable, but wind or heat will not take the curl out. The curliness is quickly acquired and lasts much longer than where waving irons are used. Besides the hair will be bright and fluffy, instead of dull and lead looking. When combed out it will be soft like silk and fluffy as if it had just been shampooed.

Just get a bottle of liquid silmerine at any drug or department store, follow the accompanying directions, and you will be simply delighted with the result. This product is of course perfectly harmless and there is nothing sticky, greasy or unpleasant about it.

7200 pairs Crest Brand improved seamed-back pure silk stockings

$1 A Pair

Mock-seam; not full fashioned. Very unusual at their price. Lisle tops and soles.

BUILT on value — Filene's — GROWING on value

We want you to try these $1 mock-seam silk stockings as a substitute for "full fashioned"

FULL FASHIONED silk stockings are too high in price. We have plenty of them, if you want to pay the prices, yet we say they cost too much. The reason for their price is beyond our control.

These mock-seam stockings are NOT full fashioned and are not sold as such. Full fashioned stockings, as most everyone knows, are those knit flat and then sewed up the back so that they fit the leg; these stockings are knitted round and round.

Since January a large percentage of the full fashioned hosiery workers have been on strike. Some mills are working but at an extremely high labor cost. Some are working with inferior help and their output is largely imperfect.

These factors have boosted the price of full fashioned stockings beyond reason. And it is still rising. Hence it is that we offer you a substitute—a substitute that has taken us months to make possible at this price.

Thousands of women wear mock-seam stockings, but few have worn really good ones like these.

• • •

Many have tried some mock-seam stockings and are inclined to judge all by them.

• • •

You will never know how good seamless stockings can be until you've tried these.

• • •

Two big improvements in these stockings: shaped ankles and spring needle knitting.

These mock-seam stockings at $1 are not an experiment—we have sold thousands of pairs with good success to us and satisfaction to their wearers.

They are not and have not been sold here as full fashioned. They are seamless stockings with an imitation seam sewed on. But whereas stockings of this type were formerly simply pressed into shape and sagged hopelessly after being worn, these have been improved in several ways.

Their appearance is improved by a seam up the back, their elasticity improved by being knitted with spring needles and their fit improved by shaping at the ankles.

We offer them to you at an extremely low price as a substitute for the too-high-priced full fashioned hosiery—believing it is better to pay $1 for good pure dye mock-seam silk stockings than to pay from twice to four times as much for full fashioned.

7200 pairs of these stockings ready today—street floor

SHEVLIN'S CAMPAIGN TO LEAD DIRECT TO BRITTON BOUT

By JACK CONWAY

"Siegel, Doyle and Britton!"

Eddie Shevlin, boxing instructor at Dartmouth College and Rexburry's great favorite, stopped hammering away at a punching bag at his open air training camp at Hanover, N. H.

"I have mapped out my ring program much like a general would his plan of battle," continued Shevlin. "I clash with Siegel at the Revere Cyclo track on the evening of September 1. I feel sure I will win, in which event I intend to take on Paul Doyle, after which I will be prepared to battle Jack Britton for the world's welterweight championship.

"I am past thirty years of age and yet I do not believe there is a boxer in the world who can defeat me today. I have reason for my confidence. During the past two years I have boxed steadily. I have met all comers regardless of ability. And I have not been defeated once. Moreover no man has ever held me to a draw. I have won all my battles by knockouts or by gaining the decision.

* * *

"I have been boxing for more than a decade, but never allowed to such good advantage as I have since the war. It seems that the time I spent in the service benefited me so much physically that I can smash my way through any kind of opposition.

"I am glad Siegel is my next opponent. I want to prove to the boxing fans of New England that I am master of the Revere boy. There are thousands of fans who contend that the army champion is too rough and tough for me. They assert that his aggressiveness and punching power, backed by the spirit of youth, will enable him to batter his way to victory.

"I take exception to the opinions held by these persons. I have fought Siegel twice and know his capabilities. Our first tussle was a draw. Then I won a close decision after a furious battle.

* * *

"Siegel is a strong, aggressive fighter with a punch. But I think I know too much about the fine points of the game for him. It was my knowledge of boxing craft that carried me to victory when I last met the Revere man. This same asset will gain me the honors at Revere.

"Nate will find that I am now punching harder than when we last met. My body blows have caused many of my opponents to crumble and go down to defeat.

"I believe a body punch is the most effective kind of a blow. This is the wallop that has kept my record clean during the past two years. I feel sure it will enable me to beat Siegel, Doyle and then Britton.

* * *

"I have studied Britton's career very carefully as he is champion of my class. Dan Morgan's fighter is today at a point where he cannot carry on much longer. Yes no longer read about Britton easing in two or three bouts in a month. The champion must take long rests between bouts. Then he opposes hand-picked opponents.

"I consider Paul Doyle, Louis Bogash and myself three of the best welterweights in the East. Britton refused to meet any of us as he knows that we would batter away at his body. And Jack can no longer assimilate punishment in his mid-section. The champion's star is about to set. I hope it will be my good fortune to be his opponent in his next fifteen-round bout to a decision.

* * *

"You will notice in what good condition I am in right now. I do all of my work in the open air here at Hanover. It is the only way to train when possible. If one boxes in a gymnasium, he impairs his vitality. He is giving up strength all the time and getting little vitality back. It is different out here amid the hills of Hanover. The very air seems to be saturated with strength and punching power. Nate Siegel will be made to realize this fact when we meet."

Shevlin, great boxer, perfect gentleman and an example in right living, then resumed his assault on the punching bag, after which he boxed several rounds and did a little wrestling.

Eddie says he is fit. And if appearances count for anything, he is right.

FRENCH WIZARD MAY NOT PLAY TENNIS HERE

Mlle. Lenglen Suffers Relapse and Is Likely to Return Home

New York, Aug. 24.—Possibility that Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, may return to France without appearing again on an American court, loomed today when it was learned Mlle. Lenglen had suffered a relapse in the bronchial trouble which caused her to default in her one appearance against Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory.

Mlle. Lenglen attended her first baseball game here yesterday, and later returned to her hotel at Forest Hills, too ill to see anyone.

It was stated that unless her condition showed marked improvement within the next few days she probably would return to France.

Mlle. Lenglen was said to be dejected at the thought that she might be obliged to leave without meeting Mrs. Mallory in the return match, for which negotiations are under way.

TENNIS FAVORITES FACE HARD MATCHES IN DOUBLES TODAY

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

One or two of the more favored teams in the national doubles championship seemed likely to tumble from the tightening race when the eight surviving tandems appeared on the Chestnut Hill courts of the Longwood Cricket Club today.

The fourth round match selected by many of the assembled enthusiasts as the one most likely to offer the greatest thrills was that which found the R. N. Williams-W. M. Washburn team opposing Captain Sam Hardy of the American Davis Cup team and R. H. Vesbeld, but in all four contests doubles competition was assured.

Billy Johnson and Willis Davis had as their opponents M. H. Hutchinson and C. W. Saunders; Bill Tilden and Vin Richards opposed L. E. Williams and F. E. Bastian, who already had taken the measure of the British Davis cup pair of Woosnam and Turnbull, and the Kinsey brothers confronted H. Bundy and B. Dell.

These matches, together with the remaining matches in the first round of the national mixed doubles championship, insured an interesting afternoon to those who gathered at Chestnut Hill.

Johnny Bull's representatives no longer are contenders for the American doubles tennis championship.

In the second round of play on the Chestnut Hill Courts of the Longwood Cricket Club, all three British combinations, Woosnam and Turnbull; Lowe and Myers; and Gilbert and Yencken, were eliminated from the play, and in two of the three cases were far outclassed by the Yankee title aspirants who opposed them.

In two of the matches in which the Britishers engaged, their defeat bordered on the upset, for the American pair, doing Woosnam and Turnbull, was composed of two youngsters, L. E. Williams and F. E. Bastian from St. Paul, who, although holding the Middle West title, were not expected to prove serious contenders for the national title; while it was two local courtmen, H. Bundy and B. Dell, who eliminated Lowe and Myers, and did it in straight sets. The Kinsey brothers of California took the measure of the third British team, Gilbert and Yencken, also in straight sets.

Many looked for the Woosnam-Turnbull combo to work up to the semi-finals. Woosnam is captain of the British Davis Cup team, and Turnbull is considered a star member of the British Davis Cup array.

Their reputations and ability, however, did not for one minute annoy the St. Paul youngsters, and even when the English pair took the first set it failed to alter the determination of their Yankee opponents, who, through brilliant service and nicements, captured the second, third and fourth sets of the match, the scores being 5—7, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

The Tilden-Richards team ruled top heavy favorites and were expected by many closely followers of the sport to take the measure of the Longwood team in straight sets, yet the match went two extra sets before it was decided in favor of the favorites, and there were given moments before the final rally that won them the match.

Opinions varied as to the cause of the failure of Tilden and Richards to annex the match with the expected ease, for when they took the first set, they seemed far too able for the Longwood pair. Some trace their failure in the second and fourth sets to over confidence.

* * *

Others were of the opinion that Tilden's attempt to dominate the court greatly interfered with the combination play. Still others opine that Gardner and Johnson are very competent performers and that Gardner, particularly, was on his game.

* * *

There was no disputing that Tilden was careless after his team had taken the first set. Speed seemed to be his aim and he was making his returns fast and from almost impossible angles and his playing suffered, much as the result, while his evident desire to beg the court took much of the fire from Richards' usually capable play.

R. Norris Williams and Watson M. Washburn, the Davis Cup doubles pair, had little difficulty in vanquishing R. Dana and C. K. Shaw. Dana's service at times puzzled them, but their play in all departments continued of such high quality that they took the match 6—2, 6—0, 6—3.

* * *

The Bundy-Dell team won over the British tandem of Lowe and Myers, on their service and hard driving. The Britishers are baseline players, and fell easy prey to the hard drives, 6—2, 6—4, 6—1.

ROSE SCOTT TO MAKE HER 1921 DEBUT HERE

Filly Will Be Sent to Clean Up Feature Race in Grand Circuit Races

It was pretty effectually demonstrated in the racing of those two rich stake prizes, the Matron stake at Toledo and the Championship Stallion stake at North Randall, that the Cleveland colt Guardian Thust, was the best of the three-year-olds which have faced the starter this season.

However, the one which the majority of horsemen regard as the real toptnotcher, has not turned for the money as yet this season and probably will not before the meeting at Readville next week.

This is Rose Scott, 2:06¾, the winner of the junior divisions of the Horse Review and Kentucky futurities last season.

Tom Murphy has Rose Scott in his stable and as her owner, Henry Oliver of Pittsburgh has his heart set in winning the Kentucky futurity with the filly and that race is not until the first week in October, it was not thought advisable to start the filly in the early season events.

Under the circumstances Murphy has carried the filly along carefully, not hurrying her in her preparation and the first time he asked her to show any real speed was last week at North Randall where he worked her two miles, in 2:08¾ and 2:08¾, the last quarter of the final mile in 30½ seconds.

Rose Scott will probably make her first start in the American Horse Breeder futurity to be raced at Readville. She is also engaged in the Horse Review futurity to be raced the first week of the September meeting at Columbus and in the Kentucky futurity, and it is likely that these will be the only starts of the great filly this season.

NOYES AND TAYLOR NOT WITH NAVY GRID SQUAD

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 24. — Noyes, who is generally considered the most brilliant of the Naval academy backs, and Taylor, another good player, remained with the practice squad on Guantanamo, Cuba, and did not return with the other football men. They have some special work to get out of the way. Noyes, a brilliant runner and dodger, thought of leaving the navy, but has decided to stay, and many believe that he will be one of the best of the college backs next Fall.

PIRATES PLAN BIG PARK FOR SERIES GAMES

Dreyfuss Ready to Erect 10,000 Extra Seats In Forbes Field

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 24.—Tentative plans have been made by Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh National club to erect additional grandstands at Forbes Field here to seat 10,000 persons, in view of the stride the Pirates are making toward capturing the National League pennant, it was announced today.

It is proposed, providing the city grants permission, to raise thirty rows of seats in left and centre fields which will increase the seating capacity of the field to 36,000 persons.

The stands will be built with an eye to conserving the playing field and infringing upon the grass as little as possible.

No architect will be called in, however, until club officials feel that the Pirates practically have the pennant in their possession, it was said, but just when the owners believe that will be none cared to say.

DOUBLE-HEADER SEASON IS WITH OUR BATTLING BRAVES ONCE MORE

By NICK FLATLEY

Life is just one bunch of trouble after another for the Braves. The pesky Pirates have departed, but the St. Louis Cards followed them in today, and that bunch of Woe-is-mers hasn't been any picking for anybody since they started flying about a month ago.

Twice we picked the Braves each for three in a row on the recent Western tour and now that we've watched something the teams went at the Polo Grounds during that they helped the Braves in their fight for second place, but they are yet not ready to be counted out of the running. We've picked them to win a couple of games every day and if they'd only do it we'd be right in the race known to the fans as the thick of it.

There was no let-up in the Braves' attack yesterday afternoon, Saturday afternoon, Sunday afternoon or the next day, for that matter, as they smacked their way to another double victory over the Cards, 10 to 2 and 5 to 3. It was the fifth straight victory for the Braves and the seventh in a row for Pat Ragan, who pitched the last game. It was the fourth straight victory for Ragan, who pitched the last game. It was the fourth straight victory for Ragan, who pitched the last game.

The batting of Rabbit Maranville was a triumph over the Cornelius in another of the sparkling contests that the trams have staged all year.

Some very fancy clouting was turned in by the locals, who jumped on Glazner from the start and it took a lot of brilliant stunts by the Rabbit, Grimm and Bigbee to keep the score within reasonable proportions. Horace Ford whacked out the longest double of the year in the second, a tremendous fly that hit the left field parapet on the initial hop. Toward any other garden it would have been a homer and then some.

Watson Hosie really broke up the game in the second inning when he slammed a two-run single that scored Ford and Maranville ahead of him. Hosie's blow was a clean one that eluded Cruise in the center field garden.

Al smacked a couple of aguies on the roof of the trade mark, and it was hard luck that he didn't come through with more than one hit. That started a scoring rally, and was converted into a base knock by the remarkable speed of the chubby Texan. The Rabbit played the ball in deep short, and by the time he got it over to first Vila had crossed the bag a couple of yards. No infielder in the world can land on Al and get him, even though he hits from the far side of the saucer.

Ford's long double went to waste in the second, but the Braves won the bout in the following frame. Nixon started by defeating the Rabbit's throw, and went to second when Tierney, expecting a bunt and running to cover first, just stumbled into Barbare's belt. Southworth poled a screeching one-shot into center, scoring Al. He took second on the peg to the dish, third on Cruise's grounder, and came over when Boeckel ripped one through the box.

Ford had to cold it by steering [illegible] Pastor or Russell.

HIGH SALARIES FOR STAR ATHLETIC COACHES NOW THE RULE

There is money in play. There are more jobs open for play masters and persons trained to lead others to play than there are for [illegible] who teach all sorts of [illegible].

Harvard's summer school of physical education proves the point, and if further proof is needed it can be found at Springfield or any of the other Y. M. C. A. colleges where physical education is a recognized department of teaching.

[illegible]

Baseball, of course, was the favorite specialty, due to the recent successful years of the Harvard system, but the majority of those who attended took the general course of instruction, including all lines of athletics. Among the 281 students in the summer course a great proportion were placed at directors, coaches and trainers already employed in other schools, who registered this year in order to get the Harvard idea firmly embedded.

[illegible]

Not only did the army reveal the scarcity of competent athletic directors, but it showed us that the great majority of the boys who were in the army never had learned to play. Of course, the great majority of them had played games, but they did not really know how to play; they had learned without proper direction, and the big thing that we have discovered is that unstirred play, uncontrolled play, is the one thing which is worse than no play at all. It is harmful physically and morally.

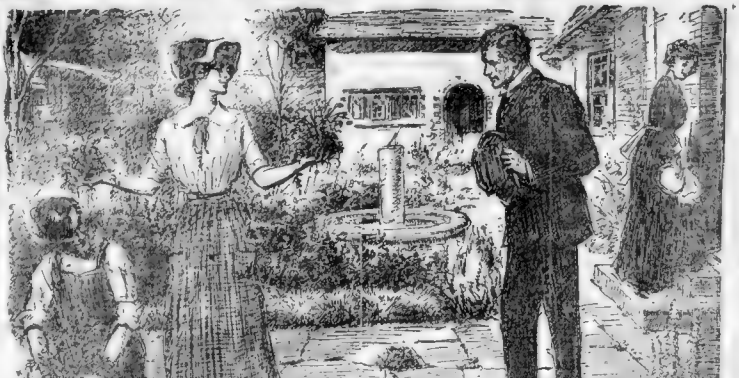
The Story of a Beautiful Girl and the Man for Whom She Made a Great Sacrifice



Drawn by Charles Dana Gibson.

Quarren Finds Strelsa Busy in Her New Garden and Gets a Cordial Welcome.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Dick Quarren, society idler and spendthrift, but clever and good looking, has fallen desperately in love with Strelsa Leeds. She has had one unfortunate matrimonial experience, and since her advent into New York high society has admirers by the score. Quarren pleases her first at a masked ball given by Molly Wycherly, wins an hour out of her life on a wager and refrains from kissing her, as he tells her he is eager to do. She tells him there can be nothing serious between them, but she asks him to always think well of her. The Dankmere galleries are opened and Quarren takes a 700 days off at Witch-of-Hollow. Strelsa tells him she is to marry Langly Sprowl. He tells her that he loves her. Strelsa tells of him the story of her marriage to Leeds. He returns to town and finds Westgward giving a lively party in the art gallery. Quarren hires a pretty stenographer. Dankmere falls in love with her. Strelsa discovers Sprowl's true character and refuses to marry him. Sprowl announces that Strelsa will marry him. Quarren blocks Sprowl's design on a new game with Mary Ledwith.

By Robert W. Chambers, Whose Novels Have Won Him International Fame.

(Copyright, by Robert W. Chambers.)

AGAINST the stars something moved on a near hilltop, and Sprowl reeled forward in pursuit, breaking into a heavy and steady run as the thing disappeared in the darkness. Then he heard it move, just beyond the fence, and he seized the top rail and got over and ran forward in the darkness, clutching for it and calling to Quarren by name.

Where had he gone? He halted to listen, peering around with an oath. Then he dropped from the fence and there, he passed his hand over some piercing, uprising object. It moved—it was a man—it was Quarren—and then, in a flash of the night, whirled instead of what was coming—an unseen fist, thundering down on him causing the very stars to reel.

He made no outcry; there was no escape, nothing to do but to strike; and he struck with every atom of his strength; and went crashing down into darkness. And over him battered body bellowed and raged the bull.

A Just Retribution

Even the man who found him there in the morning could scarcely detect what had occurred when they found him in the pasture with the bull bellowing and pawing the ground near by. Only the farmer and a doctor who had spoken kindly to him could have told what had happened when Sprowl came to—the day before election—and found Molly Wycherly's library.

Quarren went back with want of him this evening?" she asked.

"Sprowl was in the house."

"What?"

"That's why the poor child telephoned. She was probably afraid of him and wanted Jim there."

Molly's eyes grew rounder.

"Where is Chester Ledwith? He didn't go with you into the house, did he?"

"Yes, he did."

"But where is he? You—you don't mean to say"—

"Yes, I do. He went upstairs and didn't return. . . . So I waited for a while and then became back."

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Are you a member of the great "Going To" family? Maybe you are without knowing it.

Are you thinking it over before pleading not guilty?

* * *

One of the most successful and most esteemed men in America recently returned from a vacation. He said to me, "Did you get that book I promised to send you?" I replied that I had not. "I ordered it just before I went away, but was told that the supply had been exhausted and that it would take some little time to get a fresh stock. The thing worried me quite a little while I was away, for, so far as I could remember, it was the only unfilled promise I had left behind."

* * *

Do you know many people who are as particular as that about their promises? Are you as particular? I will make a confession: My eye just caught sight of the Autobiography of Andrew Carnegie" above my desk which I recently promised to send to a friend; off it goes with in the next hour.

Some people are excellent promisers, but that's all. They say that they will do a thing—and promptly forget all about it. Their intentions at the instant may be fine, but their performances are poor.

* * *

Members of the "Going To" family rarely get very far. They are procrastinators. They mean to do an awful lot "some day," but that day never never arrives. "Going to" is like tomorrow; always a thing of the future, never of the present.

"Going to" individuals are most unsatisfactory to do business with. I have frequently noticed that men of more than usual achievement talk relatively little about what they are going to do. Usually they are engrossed in what they are actually doing. The favorite day with "Going to" people is tomorrow. The favorite day with real doers is today.

* * *

Those who are eternally "going to" do wonderful things seem to lose the facility for doing worthwhile things day by day. They apparently console themselves with the thought that they can afford to let things slip a bit today because of the notable things they are going to do by and by. The "Going To" habit saps character. It weakens the will. It breeds procrastination. It vitiates the value of one's word. It hurts one's reputation.

We cannot all make ourselves indispensable in our organization, but at least we can all make ourselves dependable and the "Going to" individual is never dependable. After a few experiences, we learn to distrust members of the "Going To" family. We can not rely on their word, their promises mean nothing. At first they may strike us as being delightful persons, so affable, so obliging. But when we find that the pleasantness and the affability consisted only of words, and were not backed up by deeds, then we have to change our opinion.

* * *

Have you not been impressed by the appearance of the desk of most tremendously busy men? They don't litter up their desks with a hundred-and-one things which fall under the "going to" category. They tackle one thing and it occurs and dispose of it. If it cannot be closed at once, it is carefully laid aside for consideration once the necessary data or other material needful to a decision have been procured. Then the matter is promptly handled.

* * *

A great many mediocre men are always swamped with work—they are their "going to" give their attention. They are like the old fellow Vice President W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, tells about. He kept his flat desk standing about a foot from the wall. It was always piled high with papers and things he was "going to" give his attention, but as fresh letters and papers and reports poured in, there was no room to do any work. When things got into that state the old fellow—he was a railway superintendent or something of that kind—simply gave a tremendous push. All that fell over the back of the desk was swept on to the floor ready for next morning. Incidentally, Atterbury wasn't built that way himself and he soon promoted far ahead of the "going to" official.

* * *

Many another man has been left behind in the race because of his being a member of the "going to" tribe. Employers prefer an ordinarily able employe whom they can trust absolutely to carry out orders and promises, and fight shy of even more brilliant employes who are quick to promise but slow to deliver. Busy men cannot afford the time to give orders oftener than once to have a thing done. The habit of disconcerting to such a man than to discover that something he had ordered done has been neglected and no notification of the neglect made to him.

* * *

The "Going To" habit is hard to break. It grips business concerns quite often; they are always promising to keep delivery orders, etc., but often break them. It may be accepted without hesitation that the only thing that is dependable, so far as individual or concern is going to go is to finish up by doing nothing worth while.

* * *

To a doer today and put off being a "Going To-er" until tomorrow.

Mr. Forbes having gone on a brief vacation, his column will reappear the day after Labor Day.

Stocks Continue Their Downward Movement in Heavy Wall Street Market

ACTIVE ISSUES OFF IN WALL STREET

Mexican Pete and Baldwin Are Among the Few to Make Gains as Market Opens

New York, Aug. 24.—The stock market again showed a heavy tone in the initial dealings this morning, fractional losses being sustained in nearly all the active issues.

Mexican Pete opened ¾ higher, however, at 24 and Baldwin showed a gain of 1 at 71¾. U. S. Steel was ¼ lower at 72⅝ and General Asphalt was one-half to the good. Crucible was in supply, falling over one point to 59¾, and American International yielded ¾ to 39. There was steady selling of Pullman, which yielded one point to 93¾.

The rails were also in supply, Great Northern yielded ¾ to 70¼ and Northern Pacific was off opening at 72⅝ fell to 71¾.

Sales for the year to date are 20 per cent. ahead of the same period last year.

Among the features of the day were made by Mercantile preferred, American International, Pullman, Anaconda Copper and U. S. Steel.

In the early trading Union Pacific was the only stock to display strength, gaining one point to 129½. There was a favorable statement of earnings.

Irregularity in the specialties dealings changed toward the end of the first hour into an almost general weakening movement. Crucible hammered Crucible Steel, causing a decline of over two points, and a new low record for the year. Motors appeared at 9⅝. Mexican Pete rose over two points to 24. International Paper advanced to 49¾.

During the further sailing of the morning, many low-priced stocks broke into new low ground. These included Pierce-Arrow common and preferred, Columbia Graphophone common and preferred, and General Motors. Some of the latter liquidation is large individual lots.

American Smelting common and preferred, Republic Iron & Steel, Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron, United Drug and Virginia-Carolina Chemical common and preferred joined in the downward movement of quotations. Oils, especially the foreign group, and the better grade of equipments and motors were strong.

A seven point break in "sos," a Canadian Government subsidiary, on a single sale, was the only striking feature among the rails.

Money conditions were unchanged, call loans opening on the exchange at 4½ per cent., and time offerings at 5 per cent. elsewhere.

Big Copper Order

Calumet & Hecla has an order for 4,000,000 pounds of copper, which will be shipped in September. Half of it will be exported to the French government. The remainder is for domestic consumers. This is the only business Calumet & Hecla has on its books.

So far this month only 1,600,000 pounds of copper have been shipped from the entire Lake district, and unless shipments are speeded up, it is feared that the season for the navigation season for metal deliveries.

A shipment of 200,000 pounds was made August 5 and a like amount was taken out August 19. Arcadian Copper, Centennial and Quincy copper made up both consignments. Such copper orders are being received are small and metal is piling up at both the Copper Range and Quincy docks.

United States Auto Output

Wall street figures the output in dollars during the second quarter of 1921 was approximately $200,000,000 per week, an increase of 107 per cent. over the quotation for the first three months of the year.

Passenger car sales in the three months ended June 30, excluding those of the Ford Motor, numbered 177,000.

In the first three months of this year sales aggregated only 85,000 cars or 25 per cent. the total of 290,150 reported in the corresponding period of 1920.

Ford sales in the second quarter of 1921 amounted to 301,206 cars and trucks, as compared with 200,000 in the corresponding year. Total sales of commercial cars other than Fords amounted to 60,000 units, while output of trucks and passenger cars of the Chevrolet group totaled 75,000 cars, as compared with Ford's output of 301,206.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Wheat opened ¼@¾ lower and closed ¼@¾ off. Corn was 2@2¼ lower. Pork and lard closed 50c@$1.00 lower. Provisions:

Wheat—December, 127½@127¾; September, 128@128¼; December, 134¼@134¾. Corn—September, 53¼@53¾; December, 57¾@57¾. Oats—September, 27½@27¾; December, 30¼@30¾. Pork—September, 9.25.

Lard—September, 7.50.

Ribs—September, 7.50.

The 1,000,000 bushels of wheat were sold here for export. This is the biggest business in several weeks.

To Extend Operations

Gray & Davis operations will be largely operated during the coming season, according to Frederick C. Gray, the American Bosch Magneto Corporation, of Springfield, Mass., which recently acquired the Gray & Davis plant at Amesbury & Essex companies. The ignition system under the Gray & Davis name will be known as the Bosch system.

The new business will amount to between 2,500 and 3,000 starters a month or $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 gross annually. Deliveries are to commence November 1.

Big Tire Production

The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company has climbed back to the top of the tire production column during this year's drive for production of more than 20,000 tires daily, according to a new age report. The feat has been accomplished, officials state, with slight increase than 50 per cent. of the normal number of employes, despite the fact that the factories are running on a basis of seven hours of operation each week than when the 1920 peak was reached.

Dividend Declarations

The Cora Cola Company has declared the regular semi-annual $3.50 preferred dividend, payable October 1. This dividend was declared June 17.

The Michigan Sugar Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. on common stock.

Business Items

New York iron dealers have received an order for 40,000 tons for India. Under normal exchange conditions European furnaces have what amounts to an insurmountable advantage in far Eastern bidding.

UNITED DRUG IS DOWN TO NEW LOW MARK

Sales at 51½, a Loss of 4½ Points in Morning Trading in Boston

Initial business in the Boston Market was quiet and weak, although overnight orders were small. There was no demand for coppers. New Haven, the only active rail at the start, was higher. Later in the forenoon Boston & Maine rose a small fraction.

United Drug was the second hour feature, selling at 51½, a loss of 4½ points and a record low price.

An unusual number of new Anaconda off 1¾, Calumet & Arizona, off 1½, Mohawk off 1¾, Shattuck off 1¾ and Edison Electric, off 2½.

General Electric opened at a gain of 2 points.

Small losses were shown by Swift International, Carter, Hill, Island Creek, Ventura and United Shoe Machinery.

Among those to show small gains were: Copper Range, Gardner Motor, Nipissing, Quincy and Utah Copper.

Business leaders day by day report developments that are significant in that they bring to light improving industrial conditions, the resumption of running operations, while those which are already running are steadily expanding their activities. New England is a leader in this respect, although the share of the Middle West where it may be safely said that readjustment is completed.

Cautious buying of raile is continuing. The orders are in most of the standard list and are for the purpose of replacing depleted stocks of which are lower than for years.

Cautious buying of coppers is also a feature attractions at the moment than securities, and former Wall Street figures are on the fence in regard to cotton or grain tickers for action.

Generally speaking, Wall street does not quick assets of $5,200,000 equal to better than $42 per share on the 1,250,000 shares of stock outstanding. With the exception of necessary working capital the company has no current liabilities.

This is the largest total of net working capital that any company ever had. The figure compares with $4,000,000 at the end of January and $3,320,000 Dec. 31, 1919. The earnings of the company have been due to a large extent to the fact that its supply has been good enabling the shipment of coal in larger quantities than the low-priced mines. The supply of labor have also been important factors.

Utah Copper was selling today at the lowest quotation in years. Utah Copper on the other hand has not dipped into its surplus to continue dividends. The second quarter it has done so. Including the deficit of $1,254,674 after dividends shown in the second quarter Utah thus far this year has disbursed nearly $5,000,000 from its treasury. In 1920 its deficit after dividends amounted to $4,317,207 and in the year before that, $1,494,244.

In the last two and a half years Utah has paid out in unearned dividends over $8,782,809. In the four years ending 1918, Utah Copper earned $46.61 per share on its 625,000 shares of stock, after all reserves for depreciation, depletion and extraordinary taxes, and in 1918 distributed 340.75 per share in dividends, leaving nearly $25 per share turned back into the treasury.

The earned surplus went from $13,552,000 at the end of 1918 to $5,000,000 at the end of 1919.

The curb market was quiet and irregular this morning, Mutual and Boston Montana were the most prominent activity. Both opened unchanged and then eased off, the former losing 2 cents and the latter 7 cents at 21 cents.

Other stocks to show losses at noon were Crystal and Shiloh.

Gains at midday were made by Colorado Fuel common, Lurcing and Arizona Silver.

Pacific Tungsten and Ranier lost their opening gains.

The reactionary movement in the market since the first of the month has brought the average of the industrial stocks to within a small fraction of the low level of last July, at that time the industrial stock average was 10 points at 1921 low since the Spring of 1915 when the war-time bull market had its inception. The figure, 1921 low, was 64.80 and the current industrial average is 85.99, but 5.10 of a point higher.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Selling in the low-prices issues has been a permanent feature of recent sessions. This is reported to be due to the attitude of banking institutions in looking askance at them as collateral for loans. Such issues as Columbia Graphophone, American Ship and Commerce and others of that character since have been taboo at the banks.

THE Union Pacific reports net earnings income for July of $2,192,106, an increase of $1,813,547. For the seven months a decrease of $7,671,610 as compared with the same period last year is reported.

FOR the first time in several weeks, buying by important interests has come into Chandler Motors. At this level of last week some orders were placed, and these have been augmented on a scale down. Those familiar with the situation in the stock declare that there is no price at which the decline will be stopped, but that scale buying orders evidently are absorbing such offers as are coma to market.

U. S. Steel was among those heavy making a new low for the movement despite reports from Washington of the placing of a considerable tonnage of structural steel for a Los Angeles building operation. The independent steels also were weak, although they rallied in sympathy with the general market. Traders expressed the opinion that the steel stocks will work lower, but due to their relatively low level and the rather thin market which exists in most of them, are inclined to take off their more active stocks for their operations.

DECLARATION of the regular dividend in cash on Famous Players stock as well as an equal distribution of stock higher, but most of the gain was lost in the first few days of the Spring of 1915 when the war-time bull market had its inception. The par value, $10 per share, is the same as the current industrial average is 85.99, but 5.10 of a point higher.

The following are a number of industrial securities which have recorded new low prices, the figures indicating the net losses:

TRADE TO GAIN AS OTHER LANDS BUILD UP

U. S. Prosperity to Be Restored as Foreign Nations Regain Buying Power

A time will come when there will be a normal demand for goods of all kinds in this country and about that time period it will be found that the United States has accumulated new wealth and buying power to develop a fresh demand on American industry, is the opinion expressed by a member of the Commonwealth Trust Company of Boston as expressed in a statement just issued.

By GEORGE S. MUNFORD.

The business community has been in a state of confusion for the conditions created by the war have made such radical changes that all former precedents are unsafe as guides. Business depressions here in the past have resulted from a speculation followed by lack of confidence and even panic fear, and a prompt resumption of normal business facilities and greater activity in developing foreign markets for our products have soon restored trade equilibrium.

NO PANIC IN MONEY

The present period of depression has not been marked by any money panic, there has been no uneasiness as to whether we should have to do what was expected of them something that has never been the case before with any previous commercial crisis, and the whole difficulty has been one of getting our products sold.

When our home markets failed us at the start to the best of foreign fields and found there that the problems of getting our page second to the almost a complete bar to that source of relief.

Our merchants woke up to the fact that we had become the richest nation on earth chiefly because we had accumulated wealth of the rest of the world had been transferred to us, and new wealth must be created to replace what we had taken, before we could sell our products and pay for more of our products in large quantities.

Those at home with the cessation in buying prices were marked down and the public became accustomed to tell us that buying is always at its lowest when prices are falling. The second fact was that people could not buy because all their money was in a position of reduced trade at home and abroad. At the same time we began to create markets for their goods abroad.

Such money was made during the war and so much capital accumulated, and old debts paid off, that we have seen remarkably few

Worcester, Aug. 24. — Mrs. Edith Bartlett, twenty-two years old, is missing from her home here for the second time within the week. With her are her two children, Edith, three years old, and Maybelle, aged two. A note warning her husband, who is employed by the street railway company, not to look for her, is the only clew.

A few days ago she disappeared, but was found the next day in the Union Station, overcome by illness.

MAYOR PETERS ENACTS ROLE OF LIFE-GUARD

A demonstration of life-saving methods at the L street bathhouse before a crowd of 500 male bathers was featured by the appearance of Mayor Peters in the role of life-guard.

George Cuddihy, in charge of the boys' section at the bathhouse, enacted the part of a drowning man, while His Honor went to the rescue. Lifeguards—the professional kind—then gave exhibitions of first-aid measures.

20,000 CHILDREN DYING IN ARMENIA

New York, Aug. 24.—Children are dying of starvation in the streets of Alexandropol, Armenia, according to a cablegram received at headquarters of the Near East Relief here.

The message says that more than 20,000 children are being cared for by the organization. It adds 20,000 more will perish unless they are provided for by charity. Winter is sure to bring indescribable suffering, it asserts.

RICH COPPER VEINS FOUND IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 24.—Rich deposits of copper of a grade superior to that found in Spain have been discovered in the Sheffield index.

Assays have proved that the ore contains a remarkably high percentage of the metal. Surveys show that more than $60,000 tons are in sight. The beds of ore are already known to be at least 500 feet deep and the supply appears to be practically inexhaustible. Mining operations will begin next month.

MISCELLANEOUS

IT'S THE TRUTH—

You cannot do as economically or well with any other fuel as much as you can do with gas. That is why long experience with all fuels always leads to the installing of AN ALL GAS KITCHEN, which, of course, includes an efficient Gas Hot Water Heater.

NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO BUY GAS APPLIANCES.

The Bugaboo of German Imports

High Tariff Demands of Certain Manufacturers Open to Suspicion

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

Senator Walsh offered a shrewd commentary upon the extreme statements of panic-stricken defenders of American industries when he remarked that, judging from statements before the Senate Finance Committee, an immense volume of business was passing through American ports, but the reports of customs officials do not show it.

The occasion was the hearing at which American business men, apparently stirred by the possibility of German competition, were pleading for higher duties on goods that competed with their own products.

The representatives of the dye monopoly were particularly insistent that the government help them lest they perish.

Missouri producers of barium and barytes told doleful tales of certain disaster unless a wall were erected against the German product.

China and glassware manufacturers and the makers of optical instruments are in the same category.

Confronted with reparation obligations to the amount of $31,000,000,000 which she can only pay out of the excess of her exports over her imports, Germany is, of course, forced to increase exports or go under.

The very nations that have forced upon her the feverish development of her export trade as the price of her national existence are now striving to check that export trade in so far as it affects their own markets.

It is fair to say that the United States is more free from the charge of inconsistency in this regard than her former associates in the war.

Although President Wilson and our other delegates agreed to the reparations clauses of the Versailles treaty, our nation has never ratified it.

In endeavoring to limit our market for German products we are at least not so inconsistent as England and France, who first demand that Germany pay them colossal sums by way of reparation, and then strive to limit or even prohibit payment in goods, which is almost the one way in which international payments may now be made.

It does not, however, rebound greatly to the credit of our producers that they should so dread the competition of a crippled and wholly disorganized nation.

Perhaps it would be just as well for the senatorial committee to consider whether the German bugaboo is not being employed by certain manufacturers to secure an unduly high rate of protection for articles the production of which they monopolize.

Senator Walsh's comment suggests that this idea has occurred to him.

Courtesy of Mail Employes

It Is Different in Privately Managed Corporations

Postmaster-General Hays has announced publicly that he will require the greatest courtesy from the members of the Post-office Department to the people with whom they come in contact in the course of their business for the government.

This, of course, is an order which cannot be given too frequently to subordinates who number in their tens of thousands necessarily many men who, however well intentioned, are not gracious by temperament. But it must not be assumed from the fact that Mr. Hays gives the order to the Postoffice Department that the employes of this great government institution, greater and more efficient than any private corporation of equal size, are not as courteous as the employes of any other great business.

They are courteous. Relatively speaking, we do not know what other great institution has so many courteous employes. The letter carriers are especially so, and their courtesy is much burdened by the ordinary housewife. The man of business does not appreciate, we suspect, how many little things his wife asks the letter carrier to do for her. If you doubt it, ask your wife when you go home tonight what things she has asked the letter carrier to do for her, and how he has met the request. We venture to say that you will be greatly astonished and will admit to yourself, whether you believe in public ownership and operation of the railroads, etc., or not, that you never have met in private business any such courtesy and willingness to do a little more than their duty as your wife has met with in the letter carriers.

In San Francisco, the city operates the street railways and private capital operates the steam railways. The superior courtesy on the publicly-operated street railways is notorious.

Many Kinds of Taxes

Some Bulgarian Samples

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

The great problem in America is how to raise money. The big people don't want to be taxed. They escape by investing in non-taxable securities and in other ways. Little people haven't much to tax, especially the five millions out of a job. The government might study taxation in Bulgaria as reported by "Universal Service." The country is run by Stambulinski, a hard-headed farmer, who doesn't believe in nonsense. Instead of the old universal military service, he makes both sexes, rich and poor, work for the State one year without pay.

He puts a tax on weddings, if you have any music other than a drum, a fiddle and bagpipe. He taxes low-necked dresses, and all ladies' skirts more than ten inches from the ground. He also puts a tax of 20 per cent. on American money that returning emigrants bring back. He taxes what you can see, and what can't dodge.

DEBT

If you are having a hard time to make both ends meet you are not alone in feeling as if you were too tired to keep up the struggle and you wonder if you would come out much worse if you just let matters drift—but don't do it.

You have nothing to gain by such a course and you have much to lose.

Most persons have a hard time to keep ahead of their creditors.

There are always discouragements, if you will admit it.

There are times when it seems as if one moment of debt-free life would be just ahead, perhaps, and then the unexpected thing would happen and plunge you deeper than before.

There are thousands of human beings who know how to understand your feelings. If you will buck up and look cheerful and try again it might put a new heart into another.

Even a weak little effort at courage might help one you least expect to help and your one effort will strengthen you for the future.

Some are working themselves out, and it might as well be you.

Your handicaps are not the very worst ever. Even suppose they are the worst, you know then that you could not have anything worse, and it is something to have gone the limit, for then you are bound to be better off later on.

Letters to the Editor

Crime on Increase

Editor Boston American:

You have closed your "prohibition contest" letters, but I should like to give, through the columns of your paper, the widest possible circulation to the following, which seems to me to be a complete refutation to the claim so widely made by prohibition advocates, that prohibition has "emptied the jails of the country" and cut down the volume of crime throughout the United States:

"Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—Creation of eighteen additional judgeships in the Federal Courts as the only way of clearing the dockets of accumulated litigation all over the country, has been urged by Attorney-General Daugherty in communications to Congress and to President Harding.

"Mr. Daugherty said an increase of 800 per cent. in the criminal court business since 1912 has been due almost entirely to the action of various prohibition laws. He added that no substantial decrease in this class of crime can be expected for a number of years, if at all.

"There are now 141,000 cases of a criminal nature pending in the United States courts, an increase of 12,256 since last year."

If this is not a sufficient reply to the absurd assertions of the Wheelers and others of that type, I should like to know what is.

The Royal Fish

The sturgeon is a strange looking creature, being almost covered with flattened bony plates, in the centre of each of which is a conical spine. It is said to live to a great age—two hundred years is one estimate, but we have no certain knowledge on the subject. Its air bladder is rich in isinglass, and caviar is prepared from its roe. Its flesh seems to combine the flavors of fish, flesh and fowl, and is really excellent. It was Edward II. who made the sturgeon a royal fish, but it is only sturgeon caught in the Thames which can be claimed as the property of the Crown. Sturgeon resembles salmon in that they work up rivers to spawn. The Volga is the principal sturgeon river of Europe.

ADVANTAGE IN BEING A CLINGING VINE

By Winifred Black

THEY sent a man to jail the other day because he wouldn't support his wife and four children.

And when the wife went on the stand to tell her story, she said that her husband would have been all right if she had been a clinging vine.

"I worked for a living before I was married," said the Deserted Wife, "and I thought I'd be efficient at home.

"And I was.

"I'm a good housekeeper and a good cook and a good seamstress. I saved and planned and kept a little money in the bank all the time.

"I mended my husband's clothes and sewed on his buttons and waited on him hand and foot—and that's where I made my mistake.

"He's a little man, and he likes to feel big, and I guess I made him feel small. He was always tired or had the headache or was blue or was something; and it seemed to make him mad to have me act well and cheerful, and he said I was bigoty and nosy, but I Wasn't. I was just trying to help. When my little girl grows up and gets married I'm going to give her just one piece of advice.

"I'm going to say:

Choose to Be Vine

"'Honey, no matter if you were born an oak, turn into a vine. If you don't, your husband will. There's got to be a vine in the family somewhere, and if I were you, I'd choose to be the vine.'"

I wonder if what this poor, little, embittered woman says has some where in it a grain of truth.

I knew a woman once who was having a terrible time.

Her husband failed in business and her son had not yet found his place in the world. The woman was a wonderful housekeeper and a delightful hostess. She owned a beautiful big house, charmingly furnished and in a delightful neighborhood.

"Why don't you open your house and take in a few boarders? There are a dozen persons who would think it a great privilege to live in your home. You could make money and put it away. You wouldn't have to do much of the work yourself. The cook you've had so many years would come to you, and all you'd have to bother about would be the managing."

"I'd love it," said the woman I knew, "but I can't do it. I simply can't."

"Why not?" said I.

"Because," said the woman I knew, "it would ruin George.

"George is discouraged and blue enough now, but if I ever start in to support myself, and him, he'll lose the last vestige of his self-respect and sink back and let me do it.

"I love him too much for that."

And she rented the big house and put the money she got for it away and wouldn't use it, and she leased and lived in a little apartment in a cheap neighborhood and expected her husband to "get back." And he did.

I believe that woman was right.

I believe that she would have ruined her husband's happiness and killed his self-respect broken her own heart, if she had allowed the world to see how much braver and stronger and really more energetic and more intelligent she was than he.

A young woman—oh, well, young women are different.

Some young women.

Hard Role to Play

It is rather hard to expect a bright, energetic, clever girl to pretend to be dull, stupid and indolent, just to make her husband "come up to scratch" and support her.

Most girls would rather give up the struggle and call the marriage a failure and be done with it.

But, after all, there is something in the vine theory.

It may not be good sense, it may not be the most self-respecting thing in the world, but it is undoubtedly tact.

Some of the divorces in the world could be avoided if women would only pretend to know a good deal less than they really do know.

The game worth the candle—well, that depends upon the individual point of view.

"SELFISH" SHADOW ON THE EARTH

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

PERHAPS, you are not one of those who is moved by the movies, or it may merely be that you would rather not admit it.

Lately we saw a picture which purported to bring a message from Mars. We had our attention called by the Martian, to the shadow of Selfishness which lies athwart the earth.

Incidentally, it occurred to us that the darkest shadow which dims the lustre of life on our planet is the one that is cast presumably by Mars itself, keeping as continuously in the murk and turmoil of war.

But—that's another story!

There needs no messenger come from Mars to tell us that the children of the earth are bound and cramped and spiritually crippled by Selfishness.

However, there certainly are extenuating circumstances.

Preachers and moralists have, from the earliest days of preaching and moralizing, inveighed against this besetting sin of human kind. And in vain! After all these ages, selfishness is as rare as selfishness is commonplace.

Under Primal Law.

What is the reason? Is the human animal simply incurably cussed? O, no! he is like the rest of animate nature—only more so! And we are all under the sway of the primal law, the instinct of self-preservation.

Human nature, in a fine sense, is a brave effort to rise beyond the bounds and limitations of universal nature.

In trying to rise from the animal plane to the human, and prone to reach from that level Godward, Man has not lost his instinct of self-preservation. On the contrary, it has become so intense that it works overtime.

The more we value ourselves as individuals, the more self-insistent we are likely to become.

It cannot be said that democracy has lessened the sense of self. On the contrary!

Nor has modern life decreased our self-insistence. Again, on the contrary!

Democracy and modernity have made each of us more self-aware, and have brought all of us into the field of competitive striving. Politically economically, socially, we all aspire to be, to have, and to do the best, the most, and the utmost!

Industrial Era

Besides, the material conditions of this machine-ridden, industrial era have brought a new challenge to the primal instinct so that most of us most of the time are hunted by at least a subconscious dread of hunger or actual want.

In the face of these hard facts, how can you expect unselfishness to be anything more than another worldly ideal? How can you hope to accomplish more, with all your preaching and moralizing on this score, than merely to establish a psychic conflict in the average mind?

Selfishness? Nature and the practical life conspire to keep us in bondage to the self-preserving instinct; whereas our really, distinctively human impulse urges us towards generosity, magnanimity, service and even to altruistic motives and purposes.

One of the seemingly unanswerable objections to the existing economic order is: that it victimizes all social elements, dominators and dominated alike, by stimulating self-seeking and mutual antagonism.

For converse reason socialism, communism, sovietism, some form of revolutionary economic change is supposed to assure a complete change of human nature, by making selfishness unnecessary.

In that millennial day, presumably, we shall work for the joy of the working and for the general good!

Prefer Present Ills

Important, if true! But one may be willing to be called a reactionary and a stand-patter, and prefer those ills we have, than risk the flight to others that we know not of—knowing that social systems are not stably changed by revolution.

Meanwhile, any one who is willing to try it—be he captain of industry, or petty officer, or common soldier in the economic ranks—will have a pleasant surprise in discovering that, even under the existing order unselfishness is possible. And it both works and pays! Also in our more personal relationships, it is quite possible and feasible to give continuous thought to others. Don't worry—you won't be taken advantage of nearly so often as you might have imagined.

Even if you are imposed upon, you have a dividend of self-respect for every investment of unselfishness.

To love and be loved is the only greater satisfaction than self-respect.

And, after all, self-respect is the biggest form of self-preservation and the latest triumph for the earliest instinct.
